Completion of Vaccine Shots by Summer Is Seen

May Free Supplies Next Week

Scheele Forsees Rapid Program

Washington, May 28 (AP)—The stalled antipolio inoculation program showed signs today of getting set to roll again, perhaps next week.

U. S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele, in a burst of optimism, said late yesterday the program may yet reach its immediate goal—completion of second shots of the Salk vaccine for nine million school children before the late summer peak of the polio season. A third "booster" shot also is contemplated, but this would not come until seven months later.

SCHEELE SAID at a news conference it appeared "quite certain" that some vaccine supplies—held back for nearly three weeks for extra safety checks—would be released next week. The surgeon general said Public Health Service approval of further supplies would follow "progressively thereafter."

Earlier, the surgeon general had told the House Commerce Committee he was "very optimistic" now and that he expects the inoculations to "go forward rapidly" after new vaccine releases.

IT WAS THE acceptance by six vaccine manufacturers of tighter production and testing standards that cleared the way for resumption of the mass immunization of first and second graders—a program for which the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is picking up the tab.

Scheele, who heads the Public Health Service, said the vaccine expected to be cleared next week would be supplies already distributed, but frozen when the inoculations were halted three weeks ago for safety rechecking after some youngsters who had received shots came down with polio.

ONE OF THE surgeon general's aides said not all of this vaccine had been used. It involves lots made by the Pitman-Moore Co., Zionsville, Ind., and Wyeth, Inc., Marietta, Pa. Other lots from two other makers, Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, and Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, had been recleared earlier.

Scheele said yesterday his technical advisers who make clearance recommendations were impressed by Pitman-Moore and Wyeth production and testing records and by reports on the "excellent condition of their plants and the competence of their technical staff."

AS OF YESTERDAY, the health service said it had confirmed 111 post-inoculation polio cases, including 5 deaths. Since April 10—just before the Salk vaccine came into use—the health service has received reports of 928 cases of polio among all age groups.

Sixty-nine of the 111 post-inoculations cases involved vaccine made by Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif. The Cutter vaccine was ordered withdrawn from use last month pending a health service study but Scheele has said the company will participate in the manufacturing program under the revised safety standards.

RECONSTRUCTION AMID RUIN—About 50 volunteer workers and carpenters build May 27 to replace the Udall, Kansas, municipal building destroyed by the May 25 tornado. The new structure, which will remain as Udall's new City Hall, will be used as headquarters for relief agencies. The project is sponsored by the Wichita Association of Home Builders, and materials donated by home-building supply houses and lumber yards. (AP Wirephoto)

Searchers Doubt Boy Still Alive

'Tookie' Holmes Is Object of Hunt

Grahamsville, May 28 (AP)—As hopes dwindled, an all-out, last ditch search was waged today for 23-month-old Fred (Tookie) Holmes, missing in rugged Catskill terrain since Wednesday.

The searchers doubted the child if still alive, could survive the rigors of hunger and cold nights much longer.

LEADERS of the search rallied every possible person to join in the hunt for the boy, last seen playing in the yard of his farm home.

They expected 600 to 1,000 persons to participate today, double the number that has been searching for the past three days.

Failure of the intensive search to find any trace of the boy raised some speculation that he had been kidnaped or had met some other fate. Officials, however, still held to the theory that the tot had wandered away and was lost in the woods.

SOME OF THE state police who have been searching for the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Holmes, formerly of Hackensack, N. J., were withdrawn today to handle holiday traffic.

This number was more than offset by additional volunteers, including scores of Boy Scouts and others who had been in school or at work through Friday and now are free for the weekend to join in the hunt.

State police disclosed today that Baldasarro Giarizzo, 55, landlord of the Homes farm, has been arrested on a charge of possessing stolen property.

THEY SAID a chain saw that belonged to Wilson Terwilliger, of Ellenville, was found under the flooring of a workshop he operated on the property rented by the Holmes family.

The police made their discovery early in their search for the boy and arrested Giarizzo on Thursday. He has been held in jail at Monticello.

Giarizzo, a shoe repairer and leather worker, lives most of the year in Brooklyn, but had been living at the Holmes place for the last month.

Ike Holidays at Farm

Gettysburg, Pa., May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower settled down today for a quiet Memorial Day weekend at his farm home here. He arrived yesterday with plans for golf and general relaxation. He will remain until Monday night or early Tuesday. Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, came from Washington a day earlier.

Youngsters Burn Boy

New York, May 28 (AP)—A group of five young children—including three 14-year-old girls—was accused today of roughing up and inflicting burns on a boy of 13, then robbing him of his bicycle. The trouble occurred on Manhattan's East River Drive yesterday while Michael Simon and two friends were riding their bikes near 16th street.

Four Deaths in Jersey

Newark, N. J., May 28 (AP)—Four traffic deaths in the early hours today notched for New Jersey one of the worst highway safety records in the nation. In the first 12 hours of the Memorial Day weekend, the state had almost half the fatal accidents—10—predicted for the entire weekend by the N. J. Safety Council.

Marion Folsom Is Likely to Succeed Oveta Culp Hobby

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Marion B. Folsom, undersectary of the treasury, was reported "virtually certain" to be nominated soon to replace Oveta Culp Hobby as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

This was the latest word yesterday in connection with reports that Mrs. Hobby is about to step down. It came from a well-posted source.

Asked about reports of her imminent departure from the cabinet, Mrs. Hobby replied "I have nothing to say."

Folsom, a 61-year-old tax specialist, also declined comment.

Folsom, a native of McRae, Ga., has had long association with social security matters—one of the fields covered by the Welfare Department. He served on a 1933 presidential commission that worked out the original Social Security law. Since then, he has appeared frequently before congressional committees dealing with that subject and he has been a congressional adviser on the law.

Before coming to the treasury, Folsom was the treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Co.

Britain Faces Tieup Tonight

Ways Sought to Avert Chaos in Rail Strike

London, May 28 (AP)—Buoyed by their smashing electoral triumph, Prime Minister Eden and his key Conservative ministers sought ways today to avert the chaos expected to follow a threatened nationwide rail strike.

Even as the last results of Thursday's election were being counted, thousands of Britons rushed by train from London and other cities to the seashore for their annual three-day Whitsun weekend. The holidaying families ignored the prospect that the nationalized rail lines may be operating only a skeleton service after midnight tonight.

EDEN'S GOVERNMENT faces the task of keeping essential supplies moving and somehow easing the confusion when these people try to get back to their homes and jobs Monday night.

In thanking the nation for the votes which confirmed him in office with a tripled majority in the House of Commons, Eden warned last night that "industrial disputes . . . are already causing us great concern."

THE PRIME MINISTER called off plans for a weekend house party in the country to celebrate the Conservative triumph. He will stay at his official London residence to be ready for any emergency.

In addition to the threatened rail strike, a sputtering dockside walkout that has slowed cargo handling in four of Britain's biggest ports for a week was still going on.

But the possibility of a rail tieup was far more serious. It was called by a union of locomotive engineers and firemen to enforce demands for pay raises to preserve their traditional differentials over less skilled workers.

THE CRISIS clouded the joy the Tories felt at their election victory. With results from only two of the 630 races still to be announced, the Tories gained an assured over-all majority of 57 in the new House of Commons. Their old margin was a slim 17.

The two still outstanding results—to be announced later today—are from districts that are usually heavily conservative. They are expected to up the final majority figure to 59.

Parking Survey Group Inspects Possible Sites

The city's off-street parking survey under the supervision of the Automobile Club of New York got under way yesterday with an organizational meeting in the office of Mayor Frederick H. Stang at city hall.

Following the meeting, attended by city officials, interested merchants and citizens, a preliminary tour of inspection was conducted by Charles J. Murphy, of the club's traffic engineering department, a Mr. Fielder, technical assistant to Murphy, and Winfield Swart, city assessor.

THE GROUP looked over prospective off-street parking sites. Later, information as to ownership of these sites, estimated cost, number of cars that could be parked in proposed sites, estimated revenue, etc., will be obtained.

Mayor Stang said this morning the survey would probably take several weeks.

Prior to the initial tour of inspection a meeting was held in the mayor's office, at which time the group studied maps of the city and discussed plans.

PRESENT at the meeting besides the mayor, Murphy, Fielder and Swart, were Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, J. Ellis Briggs, president of the Chamber, Arthur Hallinan, city engineer, Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, William J. C. Buddenhagen, Adrian Kaplan and Irving Eyles.

Has First Salk Death

Philadelphia, May 28 (AP)—Pennsylvania has recorded its first polio death among a half million children inoculated with the Salk vaccine. Philadelphia General Hospital disclosed that 8-year-old Pamela Erlichman, daughter of a Levittown, Pa., physician, died Wednesday night of bulbar polio. She received the vaccine May 2. Six other Keystone State first and second grade children who received the vaccine have contracted polio, but Pennsylvania health authorities emphasized there was no indication any of the cases resulted from the inoculation.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang will speak at the stadium ceremonies.

Holiday Toll in U. S. 28

360 Estimated To Lose Lives

(By The Associated Press)

The count of deaths in accidents rose slowly today while millions got started on their long Memorial Day weekend.

Since 6 p. m. (local time) Friday fatalities numbered 25 in traffic, 2 by drowning and 1 in the miscellaneous class. The total at 9 a. m. EST was 28.

THE FIRST HOLIDAY of the warm season is expected to put millions of cars on the roads. Rain areas in the central section of the United States may have held down the traffic volume in the early part of the day at least.

The National Safety Council estimates that 360 persons will lose their lives in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period ending at midnight Monday. The record traffic death toll for a 3-day Memorial Day holiday was 363 in 1952.

THE COUNCIL has estimated that 40 million motor vehicles will be on the highways during the holiday weekend and urged extreme caution by all motorists.

President Eisenhower also urged all Americans to "take maximum care for safe driving" over the weekend and during the rest of the summer.

There were 362 persons killed in traffic mishaps in the 3-day Memorial Day holiday last year. Ninety-three others drowned and 84 were killed in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 539.

A SURVEY by the Associated Press, in a non-holiday 78-hour period, showed 294 traffic fatalities, 58 drownings and 94 deaths from miscellaneous accidents. The total was 446. The test period was from 6 p. m. Friday, May 13 to midnight, May 16, the same time span as the Memorial Day holiday period.

Deaths by states, with traffic, drownings and miscellaneous deaths listed in that order, included: Connecticut 1 0 0, Illinois 3 0 0, Kentucky 0 0 1, Maryland 3 0 0, Massachusetts 1 0 0, Michigan 2 1 0, Missouri 1 0 0, New Jersey 4 0 0, New Mexico 1 0 0, Ohio 2 0 0, Pennsylvania 2 1 0, Tennessee 1 0 0, Texas 2 0 0, Washington 2 0 0.

Traffic Counters Placed Here for Arterial Survey

Traffic counters placed this week in the city and outlying areas are to gain data for the state's arterial route survey, a local official said today.

Four of the counters are in the city, and 13 others are in districts just beyond the city limits on various main routes.

OF THE FOUR here, one is on Washington avenue beyond Hurley avenue, another on North Front street between Green street and Washington avenue, one is on Albany avenue near the Broadway intersection, and the fourth is on Broadway near the city hall.

Consulting engineers are doing the survey for the state which plans to start work next year on the city's arterial route system. It provides for a spur connection with the New York State Thruway west of the city at the Route 28 interchange, the widening of several main streets, and other improvements to facilitate the movement of traffic to, from and within the city.

Reports Hub Caps Stolen

George Dahl of Eddyville reported to city police headquarters yesterday that he had parked his 1951 hardtop coupe on John street near the Mohican Market about 6:45 p. m. Wednesday and when he returned at 11 p. m. he found two hub caps and the aerial had been removed. He estimated the value of the hub caps at $6 and the aerial at $6.50.

No Collections Monday

City ashes and rubbish collections for the ensuing week will be one day late due to the fact that Monday is a holiday, it was announced today by A. Foster Winfield, administrative assistant of the Board of Public Works.

Project Opened to Homeless

New Tornadoes Menace Three-State Storm Area

Udall, Kan., May 28 (AP)—New tornadoes in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma sent some jittery residents ducking for cover again last night as the rebuilding of this flattened town got under way.

The third straight day of tornado activity which has left at least 114 dead and more than 700 injured in four states was accompanied by severe thunderstorms, heavy rain and hail in some areas.

A rash of menacing twisters broke out but there were no reported deaths or serious injuries. Most of the property damage was minor. Many funnels failed to hit the ground.

THE FIRST NEW building—a 40 x 80 foot frame structure to serve as a government and communications center — went up yesterday in Udall where at least 73 were killed and more than 200 were injured by a tornado Wednesday night.

Relief help poured into the community. Workers from surrounding towns and representatives of relief agencies teamed up with the National Guard.

IN WASHINGTON Public Housing Commissioner Charles E. Slusser ordered 300 vacant units in a nearby Wichita public housing project opened immediately to the homeless of Udall. The World War 2 housing was vacated sometime ago preparatory to disposition.

Veryan Bay Moors At Kingston Point For Week's Visit

The sleek, handsome frigate, Veryan Bay, of the British Navy eased into her moorings at the Newcombe dock on Kingston Point yesterday afternoon for a week's stay.

Cmdr. L. R. P. Lawton, commanding officer of the 307-foot craft, was greeted by a welcoming committee composed of Bernhardt S. Kramer, city clerk, representing the mayor; Dr. Steven McGrath, John McCullough and Cmdr. Johnson of the Third Naval District of the United States.

CMDR LAWTON was then escorted to city hall where he was greeted by Mayor Frederick H. Stang. Cmdr. W. H. Juniper, naval attache of the British Consulate, was also present.

Cmdr. Lawton and his staff were then returned to the ship and Mayor Stang returned the call, going aboard and presenting the frigate's skipper with a key to the city.

MAYOR STANG commented on the fine friendship existing between Kingston on Hudson, Kingston on Thames, Kingston in Ontario and Kingston in Jamaica and expressed his pleasure in the British visit.

The mayor told The Freeman this morning the Veryan Bay was "spotless" and that his visit had been "very very nice."

The crew were in their summer whites. The mayor was piped aboard in impressive naval ceremonies.

Residents of the area will be able to visit the ship from 2 to 5 p. m. Monday, it was reported.

Thruway Seen Easing Local Holiday Traffic

A considerable part of the Memorial Day weekend traffic load was apparently being taken by the Thruway, according to a check by The Freeman this morning in Kingston and Ulster county.

Traffic flow was about normal in the city this morning, according to Sgt. Lemuel F. Howard, but was expected to increase early this afternoon. Howard said he felt the Thruway would definitely ease the situation, however. He reported that flow of weekend traffic was rather heavy last night.

State troopers reported flow of traffic moderately light to moderate.

No accidents attributable to Memorial Day weekend traffic were reported in the area up to press time today.

Ulster Will Vote Today on $125,000 Road Bond Issue

Qualified voters of the town of Ulster are balloting today on a proposition to issue $125,000 in bonds to finance improvements to Boice's Lane and Morton Boulevard adjacent to the new IBM plant.

Voting is from 1 until 8 p. m. at the Ulster Hose Company firehouse on Albany avenue extension.

Only a few voters were present and no questions were asked at a meeting of the town board Friday night. The meeting had been called to give taxpayers the opportunity of having board members answer any questions they might have regarding the proposed bond issue.

No Freeman Memorial Day

There will be no publication of The Kingston Daily Freeman Monday, May 30 in observance of the Memorial Day holiday.

Ex-Jurist, Foe of Lottery, Is Awarded Auto by Yale Club

Hartford, Conn., May 28 (AP)—More than 20 years ago, William M. Maltbie, then a state Supreme Court justice, wrote an exhaustive finding against theatre bank nights and lotteries in general.

On Friday the retired justice was in the awkward position of being beneficiary of a lottery. He had won a new ranch wagon.

Reached today at Lake Mohonk, near New Paltz, N. Y., Maltbie confirmed that it was embarrassing and that he hadn't decided how to dispose of the car.

It was his true blue affection for his alma mater that got him into the pickle.

Maltbie bought two tickets to the spring outing of the Yale Club of Hartford May 18. He has been buying these tickets for years. Three years ago another Yale graduate, E. Nation to Honor War Heroes During Annual Holiday Salute

(By The Associated Press)

Americans who live free because others died streamed today into a weekend of vacations and memorials.

Somewhere, in many places across the land, sometime, in many ways, they will pause in annual salute to their heroes.

Men, women and their children, will march Monday, Memorial Day, in Newark, N. J. They will honor Albert Woolson, 108-year-old survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic. Woolson plans to spend a quiet day at home in Duluth, Minn.

Some will sing. In the spectacular Hollywood Bowl, 700 musicians and vocalists will join in a premiere of "The Requiem," by Hector Berlioz, in a three-faith service.

Most will pray—en masse in churches, in family groups, beside a grave, or in the quiet privacy of a room once occupied by a boy. They will pray that the last soldier has died.

In the Arlington National Cemetery near the nation's capital, Vice President Nixon will place a wreath at the marble Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Monday morning, then deliver an address.

The scene will be mirrored

Holiday Toll in U. S. 28

360 Estimated To Lose Lives

(By The Associated Press)

The count of deaths in accidents rose slowly today while millions got started on their long Memorial Day weekend.

Since 6 p. m. (local time) Friday fatalities numbered 25 in traffic, 2 by drowning and 1 in the miscellaneous class. The total at 9 a. m. EST was 28.

THE FIRST HOLIDAY of the warm season is expected to put millions of cars on the roads. Rain areas in the central section of the United States may have held down the traffic volume in the early part of the day at least.

The National Safety Council estimates that 360 persons will lose their lives in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period ending at midnight Monday. The record traffic death toll for a 3-day Memorial Day holiday was 363 in 1952.

THE COUNCIL has estimated that 40 million motor vehicles will be on the highways during the holiday weekend and urged extreme caution by all motorists.

President Eisenhower also urged all Americans to "take maximum care for safe driving" over the weekend and during the rest of the summer.

There were 362 persons killed in traffic mishaps in the 3-day Memorial Day holiday last year. Ninety-three others drowned and 84 were killed in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 539.

A SURVEY by the Associated Press, in a non-holiday 78-hour period, showed 294 traffic fatalities, 58 drownings and 94 deaths from miscellaneous accidents. The total was 446. The test period was from 6 p. m. Friday, May 13 to midnight, May 16, the same time span as the Memorial Day holiday period.

Deaths by states, with traffic, drownings and miscellaneous deaths listed in that order, included: Connecticut 1 0 0, Illinois 3 0 0, Kentucky 0 0 1, Maryland 3 0 0, Massachusetts 1 0 0, Michigan 2 1 0, Missouri 1 0 0, New Jersey 4 0 0, New Mexico 1 0 0, Ohio 2 0 0, Pennsylvania 2 1 0, Tennessee 1 0 0, Texas 2 0 0, Washington 2 0 0.

Traffic Counters Placed Here for Arterial Survey

Traffic counters placed this week in the city and outlying areas are to gain data for the state's arterial route survey, a local official said today.

Four of the counters are in the city, and 13 others are in districts just beyond the city limits on various main routes.

OF THE FOUR here, one is on Washington avenue beyond Hurley avenue, another on North Front street between Green street and Washington avenue, one is on Albany avenue near the Broadway intersection, and the fourth is on Broadway near the city hall.

Consulting engineers are doing the survey for the state which plans to start work next year on the city's arterial route system. It provides for a spur connection with the New York State Thruway west of the city at the Route 28 interchange, the widening of several main streets, and other improvements to facilitate the movement of traffic to, from and within the city.

Reports Hub Caps Stolen

George Dahl of Eddyville reported to city police headquarters yesterday that he had parked his 1951 hardtop coupe on John street near the Mohican Market about 6:45 p. m. Wednesday and when he returned at 11 p. m. he found two hub caps and the aerial had been removed. He estimated the value of the hub caps at $6 and the aerial at $6.50.

No Collections Monday

City ashes and rubbish collections for the ensuing week will be one day late due to the fact that Monday is a holiday, it was announced today by A. Foster Winfield, administrative assistant of the Board of Public Works.

New Tornadoes Menace Three-State Storm Area

Udall, Kan., May 28 (AP)—New tornadoes in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma sent some jittery residents ducking for cover again last night as the rebuilding of this flattened town got under way.

The third straight day of tornado activity which has left at least 114 dead and more than 700 injured in four states was accompanied by severe thunderstorms, heavy rain and hail in some areas.

A rash of menacing twisters broke out but there were no reported deaths or serious injuries. Most of the property damage was minor. Many funnels failed to hit the ground.

THE FIRST NEW building—a 40 x 80 foot frame structure to serve as a government and communications center — went up yesterday in Udall where at least 73 were killed and more than 200 were injured by a tornado Wednesday night.

Relief help poured into the community. Workers from surrounding towns and representatives of relief agencies teamed up with the National Guard.

IN WASHINGTON Public Housing Commissioner Charles E. Slusser ordered 300 vacant units in a nearby Wichita public housing project opened immediately to the homeless of Udall. The World War 2 housing was vacated sometime ago preparatory to disposition.

Veryan Bay Moors At Kingston Point For Week's Visit

The sleek, handsome frigate, Veryan Bay, of the British Navy eased into her moorings at the Newcombe dock on Kingston Point yesterday afternoon for a week's stay.

Cmdr. L. R. P. Lawton, commanding officer of the 307-foot craft, was greeted by a welcoming committee composed of Bernhardt S. Kramer, city clerk, representing the mayor; Dr. Steven McGrath, John McCullough and Cmdr. Johnson of the Third Naval District of the United States.

CMDR LAWTON was then escorted to city hall where he was greeted by Mayor Frederick H. Stang. Cmdr. W. H. Juniper, naval attache of the British Consulate, was also present.

Cmdr. Lawton and his staff were then returned to the ship and Mayor Stang returned the call, going aboard and presenting the frigate's skipper with a key to the city.

MAYOR STANG commented on the fine friendship existing between Kingston on Hudson, Kingston on Thames, Kingston in Ontario and Kingston in Jamaica and expressed his pleasure in the British visit.

The mayor told The Freeman this morning the Veryan Bay was "spotless" and that his visit had been "very very nice."

The crew were in their summer whites. The mayor was piped aboard in impressive naval ceremonies.

Residents of the area will be able to visit the ship from 2 to 5 p. m. Monday, it was reported.

Thruway Seen Easing Local Holiday Traffic

A considerable part of the Memorial Day weekend traffic load was apparently being taken by the Thruway, according to a check by The Freeman this morning in Kingston and Ulster county.

Traffic flow was about normal in the city this morning, according to Sgt. Lemuel F. Howard, but was expected to increase early this afternoon. Howard said he felt the Thruway would definitely ease the situation, however. He reported that flow of weekend traffic was rather heavy last night.

State troopers reported flow of traffic moderately light to moderate.

No accidents attributable to Memorial Day weekend traffic were reported in the area up to press time today.

Ulster Will Vote Today on $125,000 Road Bond Issue

Qualified voters of the town of Ulster are balloting today on a proposition to issue $125,000 in bonds to finance improvements to Boice's Lane and Morton Boulevard adjacent to the new IBM plant.

Voting is from 1 until 8 p. m. at the Ulster Hose Company firehouse on Albany avenue extension.

Only a few voters were present and no questions were asked at a meeting of the town board Friday night. The meeting had been called to give taxpayers the opportunity of having board members answer any questions they might have regarding the proposed bond issue.

Nation to Honor War Heroes During Annual Holiday Salute

(By The Associated Press)

Americans who live free because others died streamed today into a weekend of vacations and memorials.

Somewhere, in many places across the land, sometime, in many ways, they will pause in annual salute to their heroes.

Men, women and their children, will march Monday, Memorial Day, in Newark, N. J. They will honor Albert Woolson, 108-year-old survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic. Woolson plans to spend a quiet day at home in Duluth, Minn.

Some will sing. In the spectacular Hollywood Bowl, 700 musicians and vocalists will join in a premiere of "The Requiem," by Hector Berlioz, in a three-faith service.

Most will pray—en masse in churches, in family groups, beside a grave, or in the quiet privacy of a room once occupied by a boy. They will pray that the last soldier has died.

In the Arlington National Cemetery near the nation's capital, Vice President Nixon will place a wreath at the marble Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Monday morning, then deliver an address.

The scene will be mirrored

Rev. Spurgeon Hendrix To Preach at Nazarene

REV. S. L. HENDRIX

The Rev. Spurgeon L. Hendrix, missionary for the Church of the Nazarene in Argentina, will be speaking at the 11 a. m. service at the local Church of the Nazarene located on the corner of Elmendorf street at Wiltwyck avenue, this Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Hendrix recently arrived in this country for his second furlough. During the period of his stay in the United States, he will be engaged in teaching at the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., and in deputation work under the direction of the Department of Foreign Missions of the church.

Leaving for the field in 1941, the Rev. Mr. Hendrix, after language study, assumed pastoral and evangelistic work in Buenos Aires. Recently he has also served as director of the Nazarene Bible School in the same city.

The Rev. Mr. Hendrix is a graduate of Bethany-Peniel College at Bethany, Okla., where he received his training in theology. Before leaving for the field, the Rev. Mr. Hendrix pastored the Church of the Nazarene in Columbia City and Berne, Ind.

"...there shall be ONE fold and ONE shepherd"

Jim Brown read these words in the Gospel of St. John and was deeply disturbed.

Elsewhere in his Bible... in the Epistle to the Ephesians... he noted the exhortation of St. Paul that there be "One Lord, one Faith, one Baptism."

"Where," he asked Father Crane, "is this unity of which the Bible speaks? How is anyone to know which is 'the one Fold... the one Faith... the one Baptism,' when Christ's followers are divided into hundreds of denominations, many holding conflicting beliefs?"

The priest agreed that good and sincere people are indeed confused by the claims and counter-claims of a divided Christianity. Instead of traveling on a single highway clearly marked with the words: "Come—follow me," they find themselves wandering in a network of roads with signs pointing in all directions.

"But how," Jim persisted, "can the average person know what to do? When doctrinal claims contradict one another, how am I to know which is right and which is wrong?"

A study of Christian history, Father Crane replied, will provide a better answer for the troubled and confused than would a study of conflicting creeds.

"History will tell you, Jim," the priest went on, "that Christ proclaimed His intention to establish a Church, with Peter as its head and the other Apostles as its bishops. History further tells us that this is the Catholic Church, which was established during the time of the Apostles, with Peter as its first leader—the first Pope."

The Mass, Father Crane continued, was the central act of public worship in the early Church, as it is today. There were seven Sacraments for the early Christians—seven for Catholics the world over today. Catholics of 1,900 years ago confessed to a priest, and they do so today. Catholics believed then, as now, that Baptism removes original sin... that matrimony is a Sacrament, not just a civil ceremony... that bishops and priests receive their powers through a Sacrament instituted by Christ.

"Many people," Father Crane concluded, "who are either uninformed or misinformed about the Catholic Faith, would want to be Catholics if they knew the truth. So all we ask is that you learn for yourself what the Catholic Church teaches and what Catholics, since the days of the Apostles, have sincerely believed."

A free pamphlet explaining why Christ's followers are no longer united in "one Fold"... under "one Shepherd", will be sent in a plain wrapper upon request. And nobody will call on you. Write today for Pamphlet No. KC-39.

Your Life And Mine

By Clyde Herbert Snell

THE ART OF MINIMIZING

Several months ago when I was in New York I discovered an interesting kind of business which, I am frank to confess, I had never known existed before. I was walking along a street one evening—it may have been 40th street. I glanced up at the store window I was passing and saw this sign printed in large letters across an expansive glass: "National Shrinking Company." Just what such a firm would do I do not know. But I can think of a lot of social situations where it could render an outstanding service.

How it would help, for example, if we could send them all of our little slights and grievances. Some little thing happens or somebody says something and, instead of minimizing it—as we really ought to do—we magnify it. And in such instances, nine-ty-nine times out of a hundred, we thus manufacture venom that was never meant. G. H. Morrison says that "some folks tend and water all their little grievances until their blossoms would take prizes at a show." How it would help if we could send such grievances off to the National Shrinking Company and have them scientifically reduced to their proper size. There would be a lot less trouble and a lot more friendship in the world if we could learn the important art of minimizing.

Once a man in Boston was very angry about a newspaper article which defamed his character — or so he thought. He went to Dr. Everett and asked his advice as to what he should do about it. "Nothing," said Dr. Everett. "Half the people who got the paper never saw the article. Half who read it did not understand it. Half who did understand it did not believe it. And half of those who believed it were of no importance anyway." I don't suppose Dr. Everett had ever heard of the National Shrinking Company; but he was working for them anyway—and doing a good job of it too.

There is an old saying that if you brood over your troubles you will be sure to have a perfect hatch. If we insist upon increasing our troubles by helping them to find good nesting opportunities we must not count on the Divine resources which the Good Book promises to struggling humans. "As thy days so shall thy strength be," is the promise. But that was never meant to cover all of the extra troubles we make by magnifying what we think we have. Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, used to say that some folks take their troubles out and drown them; others take theirs out and give them swimming lessons.

I can think of a lot of ways in which that National Shrinking Company could help us all. Maybe we could persuade them to set up a branch establishment in our city. But an even better plan would be for each of us to be our own National Shrinking Company as we practice daily the wise art of minimizing.

"...there shall be ONE fold and ONE shepherd"

Jim Brown read these words in the Gospel of St. John and was deeply disturbed.

Elsewhere in his Bible... in the Epistle to the Ephesians... he noted the exhortation of St. Paul that there be "One Lord, one Faith, one Baptism."

"Where," he asked Father Crane, "is this unity of which the Bible speaks? How is anyone to know which is 'the one Fold... the one Faith... the one Baptism,' when Christ's followers are divided into hundreds of denominations, many holding conflicting beliefs?"

The priest agreed that good and sincere people are indeed confused by the claims and counter-claims of a divided Christianity. Instead of traveling on a single highway clearly marked with the words: "Come — follow me," they find themselves wandering in a network of roads with signs pointing in all directions.

"But how," Jim persisted, "can the average person know what to do? When doctrinal claims contradict one another, how am I to know which is right and which is wrong?"

A study of Christian history, Father Crane replied, will provide a better answer for the troubled and confused than would a study of conflicting creeds.

"History will tell you, Jim," the priest went on, "that Christ proclaimed His intention to establish a Church, with Peter as its head and the other Apostles as its bishops. History further tells us that this is the Catholic Church, which was established during the time of the Apostles, with Peter as its first leader — the first Pope."

The Mass, Father Crane continued, was the central act of public worship in the early Church, as it is today. There were seven Sacraments for the early Christians — seven for Catholics the world over today. Catholics of 1,900 years ago confessed to a priest, and they do so today. Catholics believed then, as now, that Baptism removes original sin... that matrimony is a Sacrament, not just a civil ceremony... that bishops and priests receive their powers through a Sacrament instituted by Christ.

"Many people," Father Crane concluded, "who are either uninformed or misinformed about the Catholic Faith, would want to be Catholics if they knew the truth. So all we ask is that you learn for yourself what the Catholic Church teaches and what Catholics, since the days of the Apostles, have sincerely believed."

A free pamphlet explaining why Christ's followers are no longer united in "one Fold"... under "one Shepherd", will be sent in a plain wrapper upon request. And nobody will call on you. Write today for Pamphlet No. KC-39.

Your Life And Mine

By Clyde Herbert Snell

THE ART OF MINIMIZING

Several months ago when I was in New York I discovered an interesting kind of business which, I am frank to confess, I had never known existed before. I was walking along a street one evening—it may have been 40th street. I glanced up at the store window I was passing and saw this sign printed in large letters across an expansive glass: "National Shrinking Company." Just what such a firm would do I do not know. But I can think of a lot of social situations where it could render an outstanding service.

How it would help, for example, if we could send them all of our little slights and grievances. Some little thing happens or somebody says something and, instead of minimizing it—as we really ought to do—we magnify it. And in such instances, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, we thus manufacture venom that was never meant. G. H. Morrison says that "some folks tend and water all their little grievances until their blossoms would take prizes at a show." How it would help if we could send such grievances off to the National Shrinking Company and have them scientifically reduced to their proper size. There would be a lot less trouble and a lot more friendship in the world if we could learn the important art of minimizing.

Once a man in Boston was very angry about a newspaper article which defamed his character — or so he thought. He went to Dr. Everett and asked his advice as to what he should do about it. "Nothing," said Dr. Everett. "Half the people who got the paper never saw the article. Half who read it did not understand it. Half who did understand it did not believe it. And half of those who believed it were of no importance anyway." I don't suppose Dr. Everett had ever heard of the National Shrinking Company; but he was working for them anyway—and doing a good job of it too.

There is an old saying that if you brood over your troubles you will be sure to have a perfect hatch. If we insist upon increasing our troubles by helping them to find good nesting opportunities we must not count on the Divine resources which the Good Book promises to struggling humans. "As thy days so shall thy strength be," is the promise. But that was never meant to cover all of the extra troubles we make by magnifying what we think we have. Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, used to say that some folks take their troubles out and drown them; others take theirs out and give them swimming lessons.

I can think of a lot of ways in which that National Shrinking Company could help us all. Maybe we could persuade them to set up a branch establishment in our city. But an even better plan would be for each of us to be our own National Shrinking Company as we practice daily the wise art of minimizing.

KrumvilleChurch To Be Dedicated

The former Krumville school house, district No. 1 in the Town of Olive, will be dedicated at 2 p. m. Sunday. The Rev. J. Dean Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church will preach the sermon. Other ministers of the Classis of Ulster will be present and have parts in the service.

The Krumville school house was built in 1844 for school and religious purposes.

When the Onteora Central School was organized the heirs of Simon Krum presented the school house to the Krumville Reformed Church, carrying out the original purpose for which the building was constructed.

The school house has been remodeled and redecorated in readiness for the service Sunday.

The Krumville Reformed Church was organized in Samsonville in 1851 and in 1873 it was moved to Krumville and rededicated. The original church burned a few years ago and the people of Krumville met for worship services in the homes and parsonage. Services of worship will be held in the new church each Sunday morning, beginning June 5.

Names Husband Mayoress

London, May 28 (AP)—Mrs. John Bonham was named mayor of St. Pancras last night and threw the council into a tizzy by naming her husband mayoress. What's more, Mrs. Bonham who served as a councillor before her appointment is going to see that her spouse is addressed a "mayoress." There has never been a male mayoress in St. Pancras before and the local solons felt that the ceremonial insignea—a snappy gold and diamond pendant—might look a trifle odd on a husky, balding six-footer.

Driver Is Killed

West Islip, May 28 (AP)—John C. Macevitt, 23, of 265 Windsor avenue, Brightwaters, Long Island, was killed early today in an automobile accident on the Montauk highway. A cousin, William Dixon, 18, of 53 South Clinton avenue, Bay Shore, received head, leg and internal injuries. The car, driven by Macevitt, crossed to the opposite side of the four-lane highway and smashed into a tree. However, the cause of the accident was not immediately ascertained.

Tough Sledding

Saranac Lake, N. Y., May 28 (AP)—Four years ago this winter sports resort held a $100-a-plate dinner and bought a $5,000 snowmaking machine for use on the ski slopes. The dad-blamed contraption hasn't produced a flake. Sometimes there was too much rain. Sometimes there was plenty of snow. When it might have been used the townsfolk couldn't get it to work. But now it has a chance to benefit mankind. A group of farmers is dickering to buy it —for the prosaic task of spraying vegetable crops.

Chatham Man Killed

Chatham, May 28 (AP)—Fred L. Harvey, 41, of Chatham, was killed instantly today when an automobile crashed into a culvert on county Route 9. Richard J. Colwell, 19, and Bernard S. Kellogg, 20, both of Pittsfield, Mass., also in the car, were injured. Colwell suffered a brain concussion and Kellogg severe cuts on the face and forehead. Authorities at St. Luke's Hospital, Pittsfield, said their condition was fair.

Tito Resists New Bid by Russians

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, May 28 (AP)—Informed sources said today the Russians have fallen back to a second line in their talks with the Yugoslavs—an attempt to persuade President Tito to accept a role of "passive coexistence" in the cold war.

Tito was said to be resisting the latest Soviet appeal, advanced after the Russians failed to lure Yugoslavia into a quick return to the Moscow-led Communist camp.

THE RUSSIANS were said to be pressing Yugoslavia, which was kicked out of the cominform in 1948 for following a brand of "independent" communism unacceptable to the Kremlin, to adopt now an Austrian type of neutrality in world affairs.

Tito told the Russians his country wants to play a leading part in uniting nations who are opposed to dividing the world into two ideological camps, the informant added.

TONIGHT THERE will be a gala reception given by Tito at the White Palace in Belgrade. Afterward the top Russian and Yugoslav leaders will leave for Brioni, Tito's secluded Adriatic island, to continue the talks, informants said.

Tito was an affable host, but he was reported turning down any Soviet bid for closer party ties between his country and the Soviet Union. He was said to have demanded that the talks be strictly on a governmental plane.

TITO BEAMED with self confidence but Russian delegates were grim today as the second day of the talks opened. Informed sources said the sour looks could be due to the speed with which the Yugoslav president rejected their efforts to win him back to the Kremlin fold.

Doubts Congress Will Ever Agree On Refugee Law

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) predicted today that Congress will never agree to President Eisenhower's proposal to liberalize the emergency immigration program.

"I don't think it will ever be considered, and I doubt if it will even come up in the House," he told newsmen.

Walter, co-author of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Law, is chairman of the House judiciary subcommittee on immigration legislation. He has consistently opposed broad changes in the immigration laws.

SEN. WATKINS (R.-Utah), on the other hand, called the President's proposed revisions "sound" and predicted the Senate will adopt them unless an attempt is made to go beyond them and amend basic immigration policies.

A revision bill "can't pass if it is loaded down with such amendments," said Watkins, the ranking Republican on Senate sub-committees dealing with immigration and refugee problems.

In a special message to Congress yesterday, Eisenhower asked for 10 changes in the refugee law. He said they were necessary if the act's objectives were to be fully achieved.

Martha Wright Weds

Newburgh, N. Y., May 28 (AP)—Stage star Martha Wright was married last night to restaurant owner George J. Manuche Jr. at the home of the groom's family. Miss Wright, 29, appeared in 1,047 performances of the Broadway musical "South Pacific" after succeeding Mary Martin in the lead role. Manuche, 34, a former Holy Cross football star and air force officer, operates a restaurant in New York city. They will honeymoon in Westport, Conn.

Some Salami

Freehold, N. J., May 28 (AP)—A 15-year-old boy who claimed a luncheonette counterman hurled a frozen salami at him is $500 richer today. Benjamin Fallon of Rumson, brought suit against Donald Mayensche, complaining of head injuries from being hit by the salami in October 1953. He testified yesterday to that effect. Then the trial was halted and a cash settlement made.

Quakes Recorded

New York, May 28 (AP)—The Fordham University seismograph recorded two earthquakes early today which were described as moderate and probably occurring in Chile. The Rev. Joseph Lynch, seismologist, said the tremors were registered at 2:31.44 a. m. (EDT) and 2:40.49. The shocks occurred probably about 125 miles beneath the earth's crust, he said.

Hits Tree at Mt. Marion

Frank Loeffler, 74, of RD 1, Kingston, suffered an apparently fractured arm when the automobile he was driving ran off the Mount Marion road and struck a large tree on the George Boice farm about 2:40 p. m. Friday, state police reported. Loeffler was taken by ambulance to Kingston Hospital, where his condition today was listed as "apparently good."

Nautilus Returns

Groton, Conn., May 28 (AP)—The atom-powered submarine Nautilus docked here today after a cruise to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. The world's first nuclear-powered undersea vessel cleared St. Thomas for this port on May 20. The voyage was the first leg of six weeks of shakedown cruising. A submarine base spokesman termed it a routine cruise.

WicksEngineMembers Assemble for Parade

Members of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, Inc., participating in the Memorial Day parade tomorrow will report to the fire station not later than 2:15 p. m. for registration, it was announced today by Capt. N. Foster Winfield.

Winfield said transportation would be provided to the high school where the parade will start and, after the parade, from Dietz Stadium back to the fire station.

He explained that if weather was inclement on Sunday members of the company should call their fire station for further instructions.

Student Is Killed As Car Strikes Wall

New York, May 28 (AP)—A young motorist believed to be a University of Notre Dame student, was killed early today when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and his car crashed into a retaining wall at a Queens-midtown tunnel exit.

The victim was identified tentatively as Thomas R. McAndrew, 24, of Yonkers. Papers in his pockets indicated he was a Notre Dame student.

The accident occurred at the tunnel exit at 37th street between Second and Third avenues.

New Tornadoes

Washington also announced it is prepared to spend one million dollars for aid to distressed families in the Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Arkansas area.

"We're going to rebuild," said Mayor Earl B. Rowe, "although we'll have to start from scratch."

GOV. FRED HALL of Kansas visited Udall and noted "there's certainly no defeatism here."

Tents were set up as headquarters for various relief agencies. Bulldozers closed in behind hoisting cranes, sweeping up the wreckage, as the cleaning-up work picked up speed and the search for other possible victims continued.

AN ESTIMATED 50 persons were still missing here but it is believed many of these might be living with other people.

The Red Cross reported 170 homes were completely wrecked in Udall, 18 were so damaged they are not livable and will have to be razed; and only one was relatively unscathed. Only three business and public buildings were not leveled and these three are unusuable.

THE TORNADO-BATTERED part of Blackwell, Okla., where 18 were killed and more than 500 injured Wednesday night, was hit by flood waters yesterday.

The Chikaskia river that loops the city north and east crested 3½ feet above flood stage, blocking highways in the stricken northeast section. About 15 lowland families were evacuated.

Have a Heart

New York, May 28 (AP)—To the person who stole Dr. Arthur Briskier's tape recorder: Keep the machine but please return the tape, which represents 10-years of work in recording unusual heart sounds. The New York County Medical Society said in an appeal last night: "An unsuspecting burglar may be the cause of a serious setback in the worldwide battle against heart disease. Ten years of intensive work on cardiovascular research may be whisked into oblivion if the person . . . carelessly destroys or discards the tapes."

Hensel Resigns

Washington, May 28 (AP)—H. Struve Hensel, a high official under Democratic and Republican administrations, is returning to private life next month. The White House yesterday announced Hensel's resignation as assistant secretary of defense, effective June 30. The 58-year-old New York lawyer said in a letter to the President that he lacks "sufficient individual capital resources to continue longer."

Tabori Wins Race

4-H Members Get Pheasant Chicks

Ulster county 4-H Club members this week received pheasant chicks from the New York State Conservation Department in a project designed to encourage the youngsters to take an interest in conservation of natural resources within the state.

The 21 participating members received 35 chicks each, which they will rear to seven weeks of age. After seven weeks, the pheasants will be released by the state game protector. The 4-H Club member will be reimbursed for each bird successfully reared.

FOLLOWING are the 4-H members participating in the project:

Daisy Beal, South Flatbush; Robert Calhoun, Mt. Marion; Vincent Cristaldi, Clintondale; Gretchen and Joy Kahl-Winter, Ellenville; Wayne Kelder, Accord; William Kelly, Arthur Little and William Robisch, Leurenkill; Richard Martin, Plattekill; Sandra Phillips and Richard Segelen, Tillson; Norman and Juanita Ronk, Shavertown Road; Laura and Ralph Williams, New Paltz; John Sherwood, New Hurley; Daniel Tucker, Shawangunk; Paul Woitasek, Accord; Janet and Herbert Litts, Chodikee Lake road.

ceived a telephone call and was asked to buy a couple of tickets. I agreed. When the tickets arrived, Mrs. Maltbie returned them to the outing committee with a check because we knew we wouldn't be able to attend. I didn't know there was any such thing as a drawing on a car * * *.

"The night after the outing I received a call from one of the committeemen telling me my ticket stub had been drawn and I had won the Ford Ranch Wagon. It sort of put me on the spot. I have some very good friends in the Yale Club. I didn't want to take any holier-than-thou attitude. I was getting ready to leave on this vacation, so offhand I thought I would take the car, sell it, and turn the proceeds over to the regular Yale alumni fund."

Yale men were shying away from the subject today. Committee members referred reporters to other committee members faster than the Yale backfield players working a cross-buck.

State's Atty. Albert S. Bill, another Yale Blue, was asked if the Yale Club was liable to prosecution as a violator of lottery laws. Bill said he didn't know much about the award and would have to look into it before answering. Within two hours he talked by phone with the justice.

"Yes, Attorney Bill called me," said Maltbie this morning. "He said he was on the spot." The justice chuckled.

Safe Celebration

across the nation, at the Little Arlington National Cemetery, in Keokuk, Iowa; in the National Cemetery at Ft. Bragg, N. C., where heroes lie.

President Eisenhower plans a quiet weekend at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., scene of a battle in the war from which the Memorial Day holiday stems. The President urged all Americans to "take maximum care for safe driving" this weekend.

American Legionnaires at Rice Lake, Wis., will reverently drape the grave of Jonas Manhein with a Confederate flag, specially obtained from Iuka, Miss. Manhein, native of Germany fought with the south in the war between the states, married a girl from Alexandria, La., and settled in Rice Lake in 1879 to become leading citizen of the northern community.

Memorial Day for two Hartford, Conn., police officers means one of their three annual pilgrimages to a cemetery to decorate the grave of a little girl who died in the circus fire of 1944. The blue-eyed blonde was one of 168 victims of the blaze, and the only one not identified.

Det. Lt. Thomas C. Barber and retired Det. Sgt. Edward Lowe had her picture (the flames had left her face untouched) circulated throughout the world, but still no claimant for the body appeared.

Each Memorial Day, July 6—day of the fire—and Christmas they place flowers on the tot's grave.

Video Is Necessity, Coast Solons Rule

Sacramento, May 28 (AP)—The California Legislature recognizes television as a "necessity."

The Senate yesterday gave a final passage to a bill which would prevent creditors in a bankruptcy action from slapping an attachment on the family TV set.

Sen. Richard Richards (D.-Los Angeles) said the taking away of a television set works a "hardship" on a family.

Given this status, television joins a long list of "necessary household furniture" exempt from attachments under law.

The other items include one refrigerator, stove, stove pipes, beds, family portraits, up to three cows and their calves, one piano, a shotgun and a rifle.

Port Ewen

Members of the Port Ewen Fire Department are requested to meet in full uniform at the firehouse Monday at 9:30 a. m. to participate in the Memorial Day parade.

The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 1298, will participate in the Memorial Day parade. All those participating meet Monday at 9:45 a. m. at Bayard street and Sunset Drive. In case of rain, they will assemble in the Town of Esopus auditorium at 10 a. m.

Dionne Quints Eligible To Share Trust Fund

North Bay, Ont., May 28 (AP)—The four surviving Dionne quintuplets came of age today—eligible to share a trust fund worth nearly one million dollars.

Yvonne, Cecile, Annette and Marie, becoming 21, receive one-fifth shares in the Dionne Quintuplet Trust Fund. The fund totals just under one million dollars, amounting to about $197,000 each, plus a share in Emilie's portion, which is to be divided among 14 members of the family.

Those close to the Dionne family think the four girls will leave their money invested—as it now is.

The four were reunited today for their birthday.

Annette, Cecile and Yvonne, who have been studying in Montreal, joined Marie and their parents at the family home at nearby Callander.

GI Enrollments Top 600,000 Mark

Korean GI Bill enrollments passed the 600,000 mark May 1, surpassing all previous records of the three year old veterans' training law, F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration Contact Office, 286 Fair street, announced today.

The May 1 figure was 603,000 nearly 16,000 above the former record reached a month ago.

THE CURRENT GI training boom began with fall enrollments of 1954, Mr. Sheehan said. By the end of that year, 538,000 veterans were in schools, on farms and at job training workbenches, under the Korean GI Bill.

Veterans' enrollments declined slightly during the midwinter school vacation, then spurted ahead to 287,000 April 1, and finally to 603,000 May 1. Of the Korea veterans currently in training, 56 per cent are attending colleges and universities; 30 per cent are going to trade and vocational schools; 5 per cent are taking on-the-job-training.

So far, 982,000 veterans, one-fourth of all who served since the start of the Korean conflict in June, 1950, have taken some form of education or training under the Korean GI Bill.

KrumvilleChurch To Be Dedicated

The former Krumville school house, district No. 1 in the Town of Olive, will be dedicated at 2 p. m. Sunday. The Rev. J. Dean Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church will preach the sermon. Other ministers of the Classis of Ulster will be present and have parts in the service.

The Krumville school house was built in 1844 for school and religious purposes.

When the Onteora Central School was organized the heirs of Simon Krum presented the school house to the Krumville Reformed Church, carrying out the original purpose for which the building was constructed.

The school house has been remodeled and redecorated in readiness for the service Sunday.

The Krumville Reformed Church was organized in Samsonville in 1851 and in 1873 it was moved to Krumville and rededicated. The original church burned a few years ago and the people of Krumville met for worship services in the homes and parsonage. Services of worship will be held in the new church each Sunday morning, beginning June 5.

Names Husband Mayoress

London, May 28 (AP)—Mrs. John Bonham was named mayor of St. Pancras last night and threw the council into a tizzy by naming her husband mayoress. What's more, Mrs. Bonham who served as a councillor before her appointment is going to see that her spouse is addressed a "mayoress." There has never been a male mayoress in St. Pancras before and the local solons felt that the ceremonial insignea—a snappy gold and diamond pendant—might look a trifle odd on a husky, balding six-footer.

Driver Is Killed

West Islip, May 28 (AP)—John C. Macevitt, 23, of 265 Windsor avenue, Brightwaters, Long Island, was killed early today in an automobile accident on the Montauk highway. A cousin, William Dixon, 18, of 53 South Clinton avenue, Bay Shore, received head, leg and internal injuries. The car, driven by Macevitt, crossed to the opposite side of the four-lane highway and smashed into a tree. However, the cause of the accident was not immediately ascertained.

Tough Sledding

Saranac Lake, N. Y., May 28 (AP)—Four years ago this winter sports resort held a $100-a-plate dinner and bought a $5,000 snowmaking machine for use on the ski slopes. The dad-blamed contraption hasn't produced a flake. Sometimes there was too much rain. Sometimes there was plenty of snow. When it might have been used the townsfolk couldn't get it to work. But now it has a chance to benefit mankind. A group of farmers is dickering to buy it —for the prosaic task of spraying vegetable crops.

Chatham Man Killed

Chatham, May 28 (AP)—Fred L. Harvey, 41, of Chatham, was killed instantly today when an automobile crashed into a culvert on county Route 9. Richard J. Colwell, 19, and Bernard S. Kellogg, 20, both of Pittsfield, Mass., also in the car, were injured. Colwell suffered a brain concussion and Kellogg severe cuts on the face and forehead. Authorities at St. Luke's Hospital, Pittsfield, said their condition was fair.

Claiming an unusual high level of sales since the models opened two weeks ago, Davis noted that buyers have come from Long Island, Albany, Poughkeepsie, Boston, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., indicative of the widespread interest in the expanding Hudson Valley area.

First homes in the development are expected to be ready for occupancy by the middle of September.

Memorial Day, Mr. Kaplan pointed out, is a time on which the nation pauses to reflect on the great deeds of our armed forces. He said "we should dedicate ourselves to defend and protect our American heritage in the future so those who have gone before us have not died in vain."

Tito Resists New Bid by Russians

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, May 28 (AP)—Informed sources said today the Russians have fallen back to a second line in their talks with the Yugoslavs—an attempt to persuade President Tito to accept a role of "passive coexistence" in the cold war.

Tito was said to be resisting the latest Soviet appeal, advanced after the Russians failed to lure Yugoslavia into a quick return to the Moscow-led Communist camp.

THE RUSSIANS were said to be pressing Yugoslavia, which was kicked out of the cominform in 1948 for following a brand of "independent" communism unacceptable to the Kremlin, to adopt now an Austrian type of neutrality in world affairs.

Tito told the Russians his country wants to play a leading part in uniting nations who are opposed to dividing the world into two ideological camps, the informant added.

TONIGHT THERE will be a gala reception given by Tito at the White Palace in Belgrade. Afterward the top Russian and Yugoslav leaders will leave for Brioni, Tito's secluded Adriatic island, to continue the talks, informants said.

Tito was an affable host, but he was reported turning down any Soviet bid for closer party ties between his country and the Soviet Union. He was said to have demanded that the talks be strictly on a governmental plane.

TITO BEAMED with self confidence but Russian delegates were grim today as the second day of the talks opened. Informed sources said the sour looks could be due to the speed with which the Yugoslav president rejected their efforts to win him back to the Kremlin fold.

Doubts Congress Will Ever Agree On Refugee Law

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) predicted today that Congress will never agree to President Eisenhower's proposal to liberalize the emergency immigration program.

"I don't think it will ever be considered, and I doubt if it will even come up in the House," he told newsmen.

Walter, co-author of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Law, is chairman of the House judiciary subcommittee on immigration legislation. He has consistently opposed broad changes in the immigration laws.

SEN. WATKINS (R.-Utah), on the other hand, called the President's proposed revisions "sound" and predicted the Senate will adopt them unless an attempt is made to go beyond them and amend basic immigration policies.

A revision bill "can't pass if it is loaded down with such amendments," said Watkins, the ranking Republican on Senate sub-committees dealing with immigration and refugee problems.

In a special message to Congress yesterday, Eisenhower asked for 10 changes in the refugee law. He said they were necessary if the act's objectives were to be fully achieved.

Martha Wright Weds

Newburgh, N. Y., May 28 (AP)—Stage star Martha Wright was married last night to restaurant owner George J. Manuche Jr. at the home of the groom's family. Miss Wright, 29, appeared in 1,047 performances of the Broadway musical "South Pacific" after succeeding Mary Martin in the lead role. Manuche, 34, a former Holy Cross football star and air force officer, operates a restaurant in New York city. They will honeymoon in Westport, Conn.

Benjamin Fallon of Rumson, brought suit against Donald Mayensche, complaining of head injuries from being hit by the salami in October 1953. He testified yesterday to that effect. Quakes Recorded

New York, May 28 (AP)—The Fordham University seismograph recorded two earthquakes early today which were described as moderate and probably occurring in Chile. The Rev. Joseph Lynch, seismologist, said the tremors were registered at 2:31.44 a. m. (EDT) and 2:40.49. The shocks occurred probably about 125 miles beneath the earth's crust, he said.

Hits Tree at Mt. Marion

Frank Loeffler, 74, of RD 1, Kingston, suffered an apparently fractured arm when the automobile he was driving ran off the Mount Marion road and struck a large tree on the George Boice farm about 2:40 p. m. Friday, state police reported. Loeffler was taken by ambulance to Kingston Hospital, where his condition today was listed as "apparently good."

Nautilus Returns

Groton, Conn., May 28 (AP)—The atom-powered submarine Nautilus docked here today after a cruise to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. The world's first nuclear-powered undersea vessel cleared St. Thomas for this port on May 20. The voyage was the first leg of six weeks of shakedown cruising. A submarine base spokesman termed it a routine cruise.

WicksEngineMembers Assemble for Parade

Members of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, Inc., participating in the Memorial Day parade tomorrow will report to the fire station not later than 2:15 p. m. for registration, it was announced today by Capt. N. Foster Winfield.

Winfield said transportation would be provided to the high school where the parade will start and, after the parade, from Dietz Stadium back to the fire station.

He explained that if weather was inclement on Sunday members of the company should call their fire station for further instructions.

Student Is Killed As Car Strikes Wall

New York, May 28 (AP)—A young motorist believed to be a University of Notre Dame student, was killed early today when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and his car crashed into a retaining wall at a Queens-midtown tunnel exit.

The victim was identified tentatively as Thomas R. McAndrew, 24, of Yonkers. Papers in his pockets indicated he was a Notre Dame student.

The accident occurred at the tunnel exit at 37th street between Second and Third avenues.

New Tornadoes

Washington also announced it is prepared to spend one million dollars for aid to distressed families in the Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Arkansas area.

"We're going to rebuild," said Mayor Earl B. Rowe, "although we'll have to start from scratch."

GOV. FRED HALL of Kansas visited Udall and noted "there's certainly no defeatism here."

Tents were set up as headquarters for various relief agencies. Bulldozers closed in behind hoisting cranes, sweeping up the wreckage, as the cleaning-up work picked up speed and the search for other possible victims continued.

AN ESTIMATED 50 persons were still missing here but it is believed many of these might be living with other people.

The Red Cross reported 170 homes were completely wrecked in Udall, 18 were so damaged they are not livable and will have to be razed; and only one was relatively unscathed. Only three business and public buildings were not leveled and these three are unusuable.

THE TORNADO-BATTERED part of Blackwell, Okla., where 18 were killed and more than 500 injured Wednesday night, was hit by flood waters yesterday.

The Chikaskia river that loops the city north and east crested 3½ feet above flood stage, blocking highways in the stricken northeast section. About 15 lowland families were evacuated.

Have a Heart

New York, May 28 (AP)—To the person who stole Dr. Arthur Briskier's tape recorder: Keep the machine but please return the tape, which represents 10-years of work in recording unusual heart sounds. The New York County Medical Society said in an appeal last night: "An unsuspecting burglar may be the cause of a serious setback in the worldwide battle against heart disease. Ten years of intensive work on cardiovascular research may be whisked into oblivion if the person . . . carelessly destroys or discards the tapes."

Hensel Resigns

Washington, May 28 (AP)—H. Struve Hensel, a high official under Democratic and Republican administrations, is returning to private life next month. The White House yesterday announced Hensel's resignation as assistant secretary of defense, effective June 30. The 58-year-old New York lawyer said in a letter to the President that he lacks "sufficient individual capital resources to continue longer."

Tabori Wins Race

London, May 28 (AP)—Laszlo Tabori of Hungary, and Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson of Britain all ran the mile under four minutes today. Tabori won in 3:59.

4-H Members Get Pheasant Chicks

Ulster county 4-H Club members this week received pheasant chicks from the New York State Conservation Department in a project designed to encourage the youngsters to take an interest in conservation of natural resources within the state.

The 21 participating members received 35 chicks each, which they will rear to seven weeks of age. After seven weeks, the pheasants will be released by the state game protector. The 4-H Club member will be reimbursed for each bird successfully reared.

FOLLOWING are the 4-H members participating in the project:

Daisy Beal, South Flatbush; Robert Calhoun, Mt. Marion; Vincent Cristaldi, Clintondale; Gretchen and Joy Kahl-Winter, Ellenville; Wayne Kelder, Accord; William Kelly, Arthur Little and William Robisch, Leurenkill; Richard Martin, Plattekill; Sandra Phillips and Richard Segelen, Tillson; Norman and Juanita Ronk, Shavertown Road; Laura and Ralph Williams, New Paltz; John Sherwood, New Hurley; Daniel Tucker, Shawangunk; Paul Woitasek, Accord; Janet and Herbert Litts, Chodikee Lake road.

Ex-Jurist . . .

ceived a telephone call and was asked to buy a couple of tickets. I agreed. When the tickets arrived, Mrs. Maltbie returned them to the outing committee with a check because we knew we wouldn't be able to attend. I didn't know there was any such thing as a drawing on a car * * *.

"The night after the outing I received a call from one of the committeemen telling me my ticket stub had been drawn and I had won the Ford Ranch Wagon. It sort of put me on the spot. I have some very good friends in the Yale Club. I didn't want to take any holier-than-thou attitude. I was getting ready to leave on this vacation, so offhand I thought I would take the car, sell it, and turn the proceeds over to the regular Yale alumni fund."

Yale men were shying away from the subject today. Committee members referred reporters to other committee members faster than the Yale backfield players working a cross-buck.

State's Atty. Albert S. Bill, another Yale Blue, was asked if the Yale Club was liable to prosecution as a violator of lottery laws. Bill said he didn't know much about the award and would have to look into it before answering. Within two hours he talked by phone with the justice.

"Yes, Attorney Bill called me," said Maltbie this morning. "He said he was on the spot." The justice chuckled.

Safe Celebration

across the nation, at the Little Arlington National Cemetery, in Keokuk, Iowa; in the National Cemetery at Ft. Bragg, N. C., where heroes lie.

President Eisenhower plans a quiet weekend at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., scene of a battle in the war from which the Memorial Day holiday stems. The President urged all Americans to "take maximum care for safe driving" this weekend.

American Legionnaires at Rice Lake, Wis., will reverently drape the grave of Jonas Manhein with a Confederate flag, specially obtained from Iuka, Miss. Manhein, native of Germany fought with the south in the war between the states, married a girl from Alexandria, La., and settled in Rice Lake in 1879 to become leading citizen of the northern community.

Memorial Day for two Hartford, Conn., police officers means one of their three annual pilgrimages to a cemetery to decorate the grave of a little girl who died in the circus fire of 1944. The blue-eyed blonde was one of 168 victims of the blaze, and the only one not identified.

Det. Lt. Thomas C. Barber and retired Det. Sgt. Edward Lowe had her picture (the flames had left her face untouched) circulated throughout the world, but still no claimant for the body appeared.

Each Memorial Day, July 6—day of the fire—and Christmas they place flowers on the tot's grave.

Video Is Necessity, Coast Solons Rule

Sacramento, May 28 (AP)—The California Legislature recognizes television as a "necessity."

The Senate yesterday gave a final passage to a bill which would prevent creditors in a bankruptcy action from slapping an attachment on the family TV set.

Sen. Richard Richards (D.-Los Angeles) said the taking away of a television set works a "hardship" on a family.

Given this status, television joins a long list of "necessary household furniture" exempt from attachments under law.

The other items include one refrigerator, stove, stove pipes, beds, family portraits, up to three cows and their calves, one piano, a shotgun and a rifle.

Port Ewen

Members of the Port Ewen Fire Department are requested to meet in full uniform at the firehouse Monday at 9:30 a. m. to participate in the Memorial Day parade.

The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 1298, will participate in the Memorial Day parade. All those participating meet Monday at 9:45 a. m. at Bayard street and Sunset Drive. In case of rain, they will assemble in the Town of Esopus auditorium at 10 a. m.

Dionne Quints Eligible To Share Trust Fund

North Bay, Ont., May 28 (AP)—The four surviving Dionne quintuplets came of age today—eligible to share a trust fund worth nearly one million dollars.

Yvonne, Cecile, Annette and Marie, becoming 21, receive one-fifth shares in the Dionne Quintuplet Trust Fund. The fund totals just under one million dollars, amounting to about $197,000 each, plus a share in Emilie's portion, which is to be divided among 14 members of the family.

Those close to the Dionne family think the four girls will leave their money invested—as it now is.

The four were reunited today for their birthday.

Annette, Cecile and Yvonne, who have been studying in Montreal, joined Marie and their parents at the family home at nearby Callander.

GI Enrollments Top 600,000 Mark

Korean GI Bill enrollments passed the 600,000 mark May 1, surpassing all previous records of the three year old veterans' training law, F. William Sheehan, officer in charge, Veterans Administration Contact Office, 286 Fair street, announced today.

The May 1 figure was 603,000 nearly 16,000 above the former record reached a month ago.

THE CURRENT GI training boom began with fall enrollments of 1954, Mr. Sheehan said. By the end of that year, 538,000 veterans were in schools, on farms and at job training workbenches, under the Korean GI Bill.

Veterans' enrollments declined slightly during the midwinter school vacation, then spurted ahead to 287,000 April 1, and finally to 603,000 May 1. Of the Korea veterans currently in training, 56 per cent are attending colleges and universities; 30 per cent are going to trade and vocational schools; 5 per cent are taking on-the-job-training.

So far, 982,000 veterans, one-fourth of all who served since the start of the Korean conflict in June, 1950, have taken some form of education or training under the Korean GI Bill.

AN ATTAINABLE GOAL

We all remember the promises made to the men who fought World War I. It was the war to save the world for democracy. In such a noble cause, they would not die in vain.

We remember, too, what was said to the men who fought World War II. This was the war to end wars. Death would be harsh and cruel, but it still would have a purpose: It would bring lasting peace and freedom.

No one can doubt that the two great wars did indeed rid the world of tyrants and give freedom new breathing spells, if not permanent insurance.

But the stretch between the wars was a troubled, uneasy peace. And the aftermath of World War II has really been no peace at all, but a new kind of warfare featuring coldly calculated tests of strength on many fronts of human endeavor, with occasional hot flare-ups.

Our statesmen and diplomats are trying desperately today to relax the tensions that accompany this titanic struggle. They are trying to prevent trouble zones from igniting even in small fires, for fear even tiny blazes may erupt into a conflagration that will destroy civilization.

If they do not succeed, then the men who died in the great wars will have made a nearly futile sacrifice. They will only have bought a little time for freedom.

As we fight to preserve our freedom and our lives, we honor those who yielded theirs so we might have this chance to endure, difficult though the ordeal may be.

We cannot capitalize this opportunity by the use of small measures. We must be willing to sacrifice, to suffer hardship, to labor well in the spirit of the men whom we pay new respect to on this Memorial Day.

It is not enough to make glib promises that "never again will our boys fight on foreign shores." This is a glittering phrase from a bygone age. With nuclear weapons, long range bombers and inter-continental guided missiles, today's big war would be automatically global. No shore is safe. And we must use any free shore that can serve as a vantage point against a sprawling enemy.

If we would honor the dead of the wars of this century, then we must be willing to build the strength in weapons and trained men to convince an enemy he could not win a third world war for tyranny. We must be willing to add strength to our free friends, and help them find their own. For the saving of freedom cannot be a task for America alone.

In all this effort we cannot assume we will inevitably use the force we are creating. Our goal is to prevent an enemy from using force against freedom.

When we have him in that position, where he dare not risk resort to arms, we must be alert enough to recognize it. We must be ready to strike some kind of a balance that will let the world live on in genuine peace.

With all our tense trials in the past decade, this goal is still possible of achievement. The day may yet come when we can believe with confidence that the blood of our sons bought an enduring prize.

AN OUTFIELD ASSIST

What do ballplayers do between seasons? Some fish or hunt, some look after their homes, some loaf. Others work at jobs that may offer them career opportunities after their playing days are over. But off-season activities are frequently hit or miss.

Bob Feller, a Cleveland Indians pitcher, has come up with an idea to remedy this. He suggests each ball club become a sort of off-season employment agency for its players. There are cases where baseball favorites have capitalized on their popularity by opening stores or gas stations under their own famous names. Their shops usually start with considerable good will. But if it were known that the baseball club was helping its players, the club's standing in the community might go up.

Club owners might consider the possibility of spreading the team's popularity and gaining community stature besides by trying out Bob Feller's idea.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AS SAFE AS THE BANK

LONDON, MAY 24—There are no laws governing banking in Great Britain. There is not a single act defining what a bank is or what it should do or how it should be operated. British banks do a world-wide banking business without anything like our Federal Reserve System or our State banking laws. The Bank of England is chartered to do certain specific things and a few of the older banks have charters which give them privileges but place no particular restrictions upon them. The Bank of England issues the nation's currency.

There are no banking departments with hordes of inspectors to go over everybody's accounts to see that the bank is properly managed. No authority exists which can prevent a person from heading a banking firm. There are no little people prying into big affairs which are too enormous for their imaginations. There are no office-weary counsel to banking departments who badger bank managers to conform to their small ideas as in our country. Here it is all done on the basis of a kind of co-operative confidence. Besides, if a man makes good he might get a title which is worth more than money.

So I asked what do they do if a bank gets shaky. I was told that they would hear about it in the Bank of England or in the Treasury and that sound men would get together to straighten things out. The bank would undoubtedly be rescued, if it could be, and there would be a change of management. But it would all be voluntary without force, without inspection, without a horde of bureaucrats.

It is the same with a business firm. The controls which we, in the United States, feel are absolutely necessary to keep men honest, do not exist here at all. The British, in that sense, avoid weakening their democratic processes by passing so much legislation that freedom is forgotten. The rule here seems to be that anyone can think of a new law but is it necessary? And if there is no necessity for it, the law is not passed.

I asked what would happen if a bank fell into the hands of a crook, and the answer was that if a man were really a crook he would have to show his hand and after that there would be nothing for him to do but to get out.

About 74 per cent of the world's gold supply is mined in countries within the British Commonwealth, principally South Africa. Therefore, the gold market is now an open one in London, although the Gold Exchange is little more than a committee meeting. Nevertheless, it is an open market and gold is dealt in. The United States, with the largest hoard of gold in all the world, still does not permit trading in gold. It is hoarded at Fort Knox.

No one here seriously advocates, however, the return to the gold standard. It would be altogether impossible unless the United States returned to the gold standard first and there is no sign of that. In such a matter the British would have to follow us. Nevertheless they have stabilized the pound down to the New York-London cross-rate of $2.80 to the pound and it stays there with no fluctuation. It is not likely that the position of the pound will improve or that any effort will be made to improve it. No body is in a hurry about that.

It is easier to understand the attitude of the British toward international affairs when one realizes that they have a voluntary but co-operative society. A business man pursues his own judgment with fewer restrictions here than in the United States. It is for this reason that so many Britishers believe that ultimately American firms will organize an increasing number of British companies through which to operate their export trade. They have groups of businesses here that operate together and some of our American-owned British companies may find ways of doing business that way. As one rides on the roads, a great many American-owned manufacturing plants are passed which already make their goods in England, not only for British consumption but for world trade. It is believed here that this trend will not only continue but will be accelerated as world trade becomes more free.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE CHILD AT MEALTIME

Probably all of us, at one time or another, have been in homes where getting the young child to eat his food constitutes a real problem. I remember one case where a regular "three ring circus" took place at the child's meal hour, one parent would try to amuse the child in various ways while the other watched closely and pushed into his mouth a spoonful of food whenever the child's mouth opened. That child is now a healthy young man with a hearty appetite who cannot believe that getting him to eat food was ever a problem.

It is quite often the very anxiety of the parents, that the child eat what he is supposed to every day, is the most difficult thing to overcome. In their desire to do the right thing, parents forget to be flexible. For example, while three to four cups of milk or its equivalent per day is highly desirable, sometimes young children go through periods when they cannot, or will not, take this milk. Temporarily reducing the quantity of milk offered is wiser than creating an issue. Cheese made from whole milk, such as cheddar cheese, is a satisfactory substitute for the milk and is usually well accepted by the child.

Some children go through stages when they refuse to eat vegetables. Sometimes the raw vegetables such as carrot sticks, celery sticks, wedges of cabbage or lettuce will be eaten, while the cooked foods are refused. As for milk, if all vegetables are refused, it is more desirable to reduce or eliminate them for a while than to urge and push the child to eat them. Extra servings of fruit can be served since they contain just about the same food values.

Sometimes we become too set in our ways about when food should be served. There is no reason why orange juice cannot be given at a time other than breakfast or why an extra slice of toast cannot be substituted for cereal.

Here are a few general rules to encourage a child to eat well. 1. See that children get enough rest and relaxation so they are not tired at mealtime. 2. Prepare foods so that they are attractive to children and not too hard to manage. 3. Serve small portions and second helpings when needed—too large a portion discourages a child from eating. 4. Expect children to eat. They are very quick to pick up their parents' attitude toward their own food. 5. Discourage talk about personal dislikes and likes for food (including the parents). The foods themselves and where they come from are usually interesting for children to talk about. 6. Don't expect adult politeness from little children. If they are with adults who are courteous, they will pick up good manners after they have mastered the difficult task of feeding themselves. Don't expect them to do both at once.

Let Us Pray There'll Never Be Another One

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA) — What's needed in the polio vaccine situation right now, says Rep. Charles A. Wolverton (R-NJ) is that, "We have to build up the confidence of the people. If it is true that no vaccine is perfect, we have to let the people know this in such a way that they won't be upset."

This situation emerged as the House Interstate Commerce Committee under Rep. J. Percy Priest (D-Tenn.) began its investigations into where we are now and what to do next.

Technically the committee hearings are on a couple of new bills to give the Department of Health, Education and Welfare better control over similar emergencies arising in the future.

But after hearing Asst. Sec. Roswell Perkins pinch-hit for Sec. Oveta Culp Hobby, the committee forgot all about the bills. Instead, it went right to work trying to find out what had happened in the mix-up of the last six weeks.

"MY WIFE TOLD ME not to come home," said Rep. Arthur G. Klein (D-N. Y.) "unless I had the answers to these things."

Representative Klein had to go home without the answers. But Mrs. Klein's attitude is typical of the uncertainty of most people over the safety of polio vaccine and whether inoculations should be continued.

Surgeon General Leonard H. Scheele, head of the U. S. Public Health Service, has cleared up one point.

Many parents have the idea he says, that one shot of Salk polio vaccine made children more subject to the disease.

This is not true, says Dr. Scheele. One injection will give more immunity than none. The second shot in two to six weeks will give more protection. And the third shot, seven months after the first, will give still more.

How long the immunity lasts, scientists don't yet know. But children who were inoculated two and three years ago still have antibodies in their blood to prevent the disease. If this immunity is not lasting, booster shots can be given later.

What has been largely forgotten in the rapid developments since the results of last year's tests with the vaccine were announced on April 12, is that 100 per cent immunity is not guaranteed. Indeed, it was never claimed.

THERE WERE TWO major tests last year on 1,829,916 children in 44 states. They were the largest tests of this kind ever conducted. By all past medical standards, they should have provided an adequate index to the vaccine's reliability.

In the first test the vaccine was found to be 60 to 80 per cent effective against Type I polio, 70 to 80 per cent effective against Types II and III. In the second test the vaccine was declared 60 to 70 per cent effective against Type I, 80 to 90 per cent against Types II and III.

So far this year, experience has been better than these percentages. But it is still too early to tell what the effective rate of prevention will be.

The 90-odd cases of polio reported so far among the five million inoculated children are after only the first shot. It will be necessary to wait till the end of the summer—the season of worst polio incidence—before the true percentage can be determined.

There is as yet no proof, says Doctor Scheele, that the 60 cases reported from children inoculated with vaccine prepared at the Cutter Laboratories got polio from the inoculation.

BUT IT TAKES 28 DAYS to run a serum test by inoculating a monkey and then making a tissue culture. It will be early June before the Cutter tests are concluded and a final judgment can be made.

As Dr. W. H. Sebrell, director of the National Institute of Health explains it, each vial of the vaccine, prepared for physicians' use, contains doses for nine children. In no cases so far disclosed have two infections been traced to inoculations from the same vial.

The cases of polio that have developed in inoculated children thus far may have come from two causes.

First in coincidental infection. A child may have a low resistance to the disease. This child may have been infected close to the time of inoculation. Immunity from inoculation builds up slowly. The inoculation may not have acted fast enough to prevent the disease.

Second is massive infection. Polio epidemics break out in irregular patterns in unpredictable places. The cause of the disease is not known. A heavier infection in some areas could bring on an incidence of the disease that the immunity in first shots could not cope with.

For instance, the number of cases reported in California and Idaho, where the Cutter vaccine was used, has been higher than would normally have been expected at this season.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

May 28, 1935—Harold King was elected vice-president of the National Ulster County Bank to succeed John W. Matthews, who had resigned.

Plans were made for observance of Trinity Methodist Sunday School's centennial in June.

An outbreak of scarlet fever was reported here.

Dr. A. L. Hill, local dentist, it was noted, had been practicing for more than 50 years having opened an office here in 1889.

May 28, 1945—Members of the National Committee for Economic Development, and a local Chamber of Commerce group were slated to meet here May 31.

Boy Scout Troop No. 1 held investiture rites at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Manuel Reina, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, reported a membership of more than 500 within four weeks after organizing.

Thomas A. McNelis, Jr., of Main street, was awarded a scholarship to Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

At a recent ceremony Mayor Stang made the observation that we don't appreciate the various public services until we are deprived of them.

Several days ago I was given the opportunity to evaluate one of our services. A water main at the hospital on Golden Hill broke at about 4:45 in the afternoon. By seven that evening Mr. E. Cloonan, the superintendent of the Water Department, had arranged for the services of a contractor and work was begun. It was necessary to locate the leak, dig out the broken six inch pipe and replace a 10-foot section. It was a pleasure to watch the Water Department crew at work. There was no waste of time or effort and everything was at hand including a pump to drain out the ditch and emergency lighting. Just before the job was completed, at midnight, Mr. Harry Edinger and Mr. Fred Wadnola added chlorine to the system to overcome any possible contamination.

It is comforting to know that that we have capable and efficient men to watch over the various city and county departments.

Dog Killed

Editor, The Freeman:

Will you please publish the following letter:

On the evening of May 8, between 6:30 and 7 p. m., a dog was killed near the West Hurley Post Office. The dog was not in the middle of the road but practically at the entrance to the driveway where he lived.

"Taffy" was the pet of four little sisters who saw him run down. Could the driver who killed the dog see the grief of these little ones it might teach him to slow up when going through a village where there is a sign saying "Entering West Hurley Go Slow." He didn't slow up, according to a boy witness, but kept right on traveling on Route 28. All the boy could say was that the car was maroon in color.

What can be done with these wild hit and run drivers?

In Dubious Battle

Zanesville, Ohio (AP)—Late one night a car drove by and someone yelled out of the window, asking pedestrian Eddie Smith, 19, if he wanted to fight. The next day, Smith located Herb Worthington, another 19-year-older, and inflicted the following damage: Cut lower lip, requiring five stitches to close, and a broken partial dental plate. Smith readily admitted a charge of assault and was fined $25 and costs and given a suspended 10-day jail sentence. He also had to pay Worthington's medical and dental expenses. To top it off, Smith learned it wasn't Worthington at all who asked about a fight in the first place.

AN ATTAINABLE GOAL

We all remember the promises made to the men who fought World War I. It was the war to save the world for democracy. In such a noble cause, they would not die in vain.

We remember, too, what was said to the men who fought World War II. This was the war to end wars. Death would be harsh and cruel, but it still would have a purpose: It would bring lasting peace and freedom.

No one can doubt that the two great wars did indeed rid the world of tyrants and give freedom new breathing spells, if not permanent insurance.

But the stretch between the wars was a troubled, uneasy peace. And the aftermath of World War II has really been no peace at all, but a new kind of warfare featuring coldly calculated tests of strength on many fronts of human endeavor, with occasional hot flare-ups.

Our statesmen and diplomats are trying desperately today to relax the tensions that accompany this titanic struggle. They are trying to prevent trouble zones from igniting even in small fires, for fear even tiny blazes may erupt into a conflagration that will destroy civilization.

If they do not succeed, then the men who died in the great wars will have made a nearly futile sacrifice. They will only have bought a little time for freedom.

As we fight to preserve our freedom and our lives, we honor those who yielded theirs so we might have this chance to endure, difficult though the ordeal may be.

We cannot capitalize this opportunity by the use of small measures. We must be willing to sacrifice, to suffer hardship, to labor well in the spirit of the men whom we pay new respect to on this Memorial Day.

It is not enough to make glib promises that "never again will our boys fight on foreign shores." This is a glittering phrase from a bygone age. With nuclear weapons, long range bombers and inter-continental guided missiles, today's big war would be automatically global. No shore is safe. And we must use any free shore that can serve as a vantage point against a sprawling enemy.

If we would honor the dead of the wars of this century, then we must be willing to build the strength in weapons and trained men to convince an enemy he could not win a third world war for tyranny. We must be willing to add strength to our free friends, and help them find their own. For the saving of freedom cannot be a task for America alone.

In all this effort we cannot assume we will inevitably use the force we are creating. Our goal is to prevent an enemy from using force against freedom.

When we have him in that position, where he dare not risk resort to arms, we must be alert enough to recognize it. We must be ready to strike some kind of a balance that will let the world live on in genuine peace.

With all our tense trials in the past decade, this goal is still possible of achievement. The day may yet come when we can believe with confidence that the blood of our sons bought an enduring prize.

AN OUTFIELD ASSIST

What do ballplayers do between seasons? Some fish or hunt, some look after their homes, some loaf. Others work at jobs that may offer them career opportunities after their playing days are over. But off-season activities are frequently hit or miss.

Bob Feller, a Cleveland Indians pitcher, has come up with an idea to remedy this. He suggests each ball club become a sort of off-season employment agency for its players. There are cases where baseball favorites have capitalized on their popularity by opening stores or gas stations under their own famous names. Their shops usually start with considerable good will. But if it were known that the baseball club was helping its players, the club's standing in the community might go up.

Club owners might consider the possibility of spreading the team's popularity and gaining community stature besides by trying out Bob Feller's idea.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AS SAFE AS THE BANK

LONDON, MAY 24—There are no laws governing banking in Great Britain. There is not a single act defining what a bank is or what it should do or how it should be operated. British banks do a world-wide banking business without anything like our Federal Reserve System or our State banking laws. The Bank of England is chartered to do certain specific things and a few of the older banks have charters which give them privileges but place no particular restrictions upon them. The Bank of England issues the nation's currency.

There are no banking departments with hordes of inspectors to go over everybody's accounts to see that the bank is properly managed. No authority exists which can prevent a person from heading a banking firm. There are no little people prying into big affairs which are too enormous for their imaginations. There are no office-weary counsel to banking departments who badger bank managers to conform to their small ideas as in our country. Here it is all done on the basis of a kind of co-operative confidence. Besides, if a man makes good he might get a title which is worth more than money.

So I asked what do they do if a bank gets shaky. I was told that they would hear about it in the Bank of England or in the Treasury and that sound men would get together to straighten things out. The bank would undoubtedly be rescued, if it could be, and there would be a change of management. But it would all be voluntary without force, without inspection, without a horde of bureaucrats.

It is the same with a business firm. The controls which we, in the United States, feel are absolutely necessary to keep men honest, do not exist here at all. The British, in that sense, avoid weakening their democratic processes by passing so much legislation that freedom is forgotten. The rule here seems to be that anyone can think of a new law but is it necessary? And if there is no necessity for it, the law is not passed.

I asked what would happen if a bank fell into the hands of a crook, and the answer was that if a man were really a crook he would have to show his hand and after that there would be nothing for him to do but to get out.

About 74 per cent of the world's gold supply is mined in countries within the British Commonwealth, principally South Africa. Therefore, the gold market is now an open one in London, although the Gold Exchange is little more than a committee meeting. Nevertheless, it is an open market and gold is dealt in. The United States, with the largest hoard of gold in all the world, still does not permit trading in gold. It is hoarded at Fort Knox.

No one here seriously advocates, however, the return to the gold standard. It would be altogether impossible unless the United States returned to the gold standard first and there is no sign of that. In such a matter the British would have to follow us. Nevertheless they have stabilized the pound down to the New York-London cross-rate of $2.80 to the pound and it stays there with no fluctuation. It is not likely that the position of the pound will improve or that any effort will be made to improve it. No body is in a hurry about that.

It is easier to understand the attitude of the British toward international affairs when one realizes that they have a voluntary but co-operative society. A business man pursues his own judgment with fewer restrictions here than in the United States. It is for this reason that so many Britishers believe that ultimately American firms will organize an increasing number of British companies through which to operate their export trade. They have groups of businesses here that operate together and some of our American-owned British companies may find ways of doing business that way. As one rides on the roads, a great many American-owned manufacturing plants are passed which already make their goods in England, not only for British consumption but for world trade. It is believed here that this trend will not only continue but will be accelerated as world trade becomes more free.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE CHILD AT MEALTIME

Probably all of us, at one time or another, have been in homes where getting the young child to eat his food constitutes a real problem. I remember one case where a regular "three ring circus" took place at the child's meal hour, one parent would try to amuse the child in various ways while the other watched closely and pushed into his mouth a spoonful of food whenever the child's mouth opened. That child is now a healthy young man with a hearty appetite who cannot believe that getting him to eat food was ever a problem.

It is quite often the very anxiety of the parents, that the child eat what he is supposed to every day, is the most difficult thing to overcome. In their desire to do the right thing, parents forget to be flexible. For example, while three to four cups of milk or its equivalent per day is highly desirable, sometimes young children go through periods when they cannot, or will not, take this milk. Temporarily reducing the quantity of milk offered is wiser than creating an issue. Cheese made from whole milk, such as cheddar cheese, is a satisfactory substitute for the milk and is usually well accepted by the child.

Some children go through stages when they refuse to eat vegetables. Sometimes the raw vegetables such as carrot sticks, celery sticks, wedges of cabbage or lettuce will be eaten, while the cooked foods are refused. As for milk, if all vegetables are refused, it is more desirable to reduce or eliminate them for a while than to urge and push the child to eat them. Extra servings of fruit can be served since they contain just about the same food values.

Sometimes we become too set in our ways about when food should be served. There is no reason why orange juice cannot be given at a time other than breakfast or why an extra slice of toast cannot be substituted for cereal.

Here are a few general rules to encourage a child to eat well. 1. See that children get enough rest and relaxation so they are not tired at mealtime. 2. Prepare foods so that they are attractive to children and not too hard to manage. 3. Serve small portions and second helpings when needed—too large a portion discourages a child from eating. 4. Expect children to eat. They are very quick to pick up their parents' attitude toward their own food. 5. Discourage talk about personal dislikes and likes for food (including the parents). The foods themselves and where they come from are usually interesting for children to talk about. 6. Don't expect adult politeness from little children. If they are with adults who are courteous, they will pick up good manners after they have mastered the difficult task of feeding themselves. Don't expect them to do both at once.

Let Us Pray There'll Never Be Another One

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA) — What's needed in the polio vaccine situation right now, says Rep. Charles A. Wolverton (R-NJ) is that, "We have to build up the confidence of the people. If it is true that no vaccine is perfect, we have to let the people know this in such a way that they won't be upset."

This situation emerged as the House Interstate Commerce Committee under Rep. J. Percy Priest (D-Tenn.) began its investigations into where we are now and what to do next.

Technically the committee hearings are on a couple of new bills to give the Department of Health, Education and Welfare better control over similar emergencies arising in the future.

But after hearing Asst. Sec. Roswell Perkins pinch-hit for Sec. Oveta Culp Hobby, the committee forgot all about the bills. Instead, it went right to work trying to find out what had happened in the mix-up of the last six weeks.

"MY WIFE TOLD ME not to come home," said Rep. Arthur G. Klein (D-N. Y.) "unless I had the answers to these things."

Representative Klein had to go home without the answers. But Mrs. Klein's attitude is typical of the uncertainty of most people over the safety of polio vaccine and whether inoculations should be continued.

Surgeon General Leonard H. Scheele, head of the U. S. Public Health Service, has cleared up one point.

Many parents have the idea he says, that one shot of Salk polio vaccine made children more subject to the disease.

This is not true, says Dr. Scheele. One injection will give more immunity than none. The second shot in two to six weeks will give more protection. And the third shot, seven months after the first, will give still more.

How long the immunity lasts, scientists don't yet know. But children who were inoculated two and three years ago still have antibodies in their blood to prevent the disease. If this immunity is not lasting, booster shots can be given later.

What has been largely forgotten in the rapid developments since the results of last year's tests with the vaccine were announced on April 12, is that 100 per cent immunity is not guaranteed. Indeed, it was never claimed.

THERE WERE TWO major tests last year on 1,829,916 children in 44 states. They were the largest tests of this kind ever conducted. By all past medical standards, they should have provided an adequate index to the vaccine's reliability.

In the first test the vaccine was found to be 60 to 80 per cent effective against Type I polio, 70 to 80 per cent effective against Types II and III. In the second test the vaccine was declared 60 to 70 per cent effective against Type I, 80 to 90 per cent against Types II and III.

So far this year, experience has been better than these percentages. But it is still too early to tell what the effective rate of prevention will be.

The 90-odd cases of polio reported so far among the five million inoculated children are after only the first shot. It will be necessary to wait till the end of the summer—the season of worst polio incidence—before the true percentage can be determined.

There is as yet no proof, says Doctor Scheele, that the 60 cases reported from children inoculated with vaccine prepared at the Cutter Laboratories got polio from the inoculation.

BUT IT TAKES 28 DAYS to run a serum test by inoculating a monkey and then making a tissue culture. It will be early June before the Cutter tests are concluded and a final judgment can be made.

As Dr. W. H. Sebrell, director of the National Institute of Health explains it, each vial of the vaccine, prepared for physicians' use, contains doses for nine children. In no cases so far disclosed have two infections been traced to inoculations from the same vial.

The cases of polio that have developed in inoculated children thus far may have come from two causes.

First in coincidental infection. A child may have a low resistance to the disease. This child may have been infected close to the time of inoculation. Immunity from inoculation builds up slowly. The inoculation may not have acted fast enough to prevent the disease.

Second is massive infection. Polio epidemics break out in irregular patterns in unpredictable places. The cause of the disease is not known. A heavier infection in some areas could bring on an incidence of the disease that the immunity in first shots could not cope with.

For instance, the number of cases reported in California and Idaho, where the Cutter vaccine was used, has been higher than would normally have been expected at this season.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

May 28, 1935—Harold King was elected vice-president of the National Ulster County Bank to succeed John W. Matthews, who had resigned.

Plans were made for observance of Trinity Methodist Sunday School's centennial in June.

An outbreak of scarlet fever was reported here.

Dr. A. L. Hill, local dentist, it was noted, had been practicing for more than 50 years having opened an office here in 1889.

May 28, 1945—Members of the National Committee for Economic Development, and a local Chamber of Commerce group were slated to meet here May 31.

Boy Scout Troop No. 1 held investiture rites at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Manuel Reina, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, reported a membership of more than 500 within four weeks after organizing.

Thomas A. McNelis, Jr., of Main street, was awarded a scholarship to Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

District Attorney Guest Speaker at Baptist Ladies' Night

Three major factors tend to breed parent delinquency, which in turn cause much of juvenile delinquency, District Attorney Howard C. St. John said when he addressed the annual Ladies' Night program at the First Baptist Church this week.

Mr. St. John said that the first factor was the all-too familiar family circle of the past now gradually disappearing due to too many outside activities.

The speaker pointed out that with fathers going bowling and mothers attending bridge club meetings and many other social activities, children of today are being neglected.

He listed the second factor as the lack of religious training and consistent church attendance.

Mr. St. John said it was all too apparent that many churchgoers today are together as a family only at Christmas and Easter time. Religious living and Christian principles are not a part of the lives of these people he pointed out.

The third point in the talk which he labeled a primary cause to child delinquency was the emphasis on material gains by parents much to the neglect of their children. To illustrate this, the speaker said that all one needs to do now is to ride through the slum area of any community and note the new cars and television aerials that are conspicuous in these locations.

Bringing the problem closer to home, Mr. St. John pointed out what he considers one of the prime needs to combat juvenile delinquency in Ulster county.

"While we have only one probation officer in a county of more than 92,000 population, he said, Dutchess county, with a population of more than 130,000, has a staff of eight. He expressed the opinion that a county of the size of Ulster should have at least a staff of four probation officrs.

He told his audience that this can only be changed by the board of supervisors acting to appropriate funds to enlarge the staff of probation officers.

Telling Child to Trust What Terrifies Her Is No Comfort

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Indignation is a good emotion. It has such conviction in it that, unlike anger it can act without bluster or violence.

A young mother who signs herself Mrs. O. needs some.

For she has a neighbor who has twice terrorized her three-year-old child. Two months ago, visiting this neighbor, Marilyn was told that she would die, be hidden in a big, black hole and have dirt shoveled over her face. It took weeks before Marilyn could accept sleep without screaming.

Dissatisfied with this effect of her news, the neighbor has just given Marilyn some more. Two weeks ago, she convinced Marilyn that mothers of children who won't finish their meals poke the food down their throats with a sharp stick. Now Marilyn has become a feeding problem.

"What would you do in my place?" asks Mrs. O.

Let's put it mildly. I would shackle Marilyn to my belt with a strong chain before I'd permit any more wanderings in the direction of my neighbor.

I would feel such indignation that I'd be able to go on saying "Good morning" to her as though no decision had been made. Both of us would know it had. Both of us would know that Marilyn and I were through with this neighbor.

Now that Mrs. O. knows what I'd do, let's talk about Marilyn.

Why did she return to visit a person who told her that she was destined for a big, black hole and dirt on her face?

She didn't wish to. In her own language of bedtime terror, Marilyn expressed great revulsion against whatever it is in the neighbor that delights in making babies scream.

Did anyone soothing her terror of the "big black hole" say, "Hush, Mrs. So-ond-So didn't mean to scare you. She loves little girls. She didn't want to hurt you . . .?" Who "comforted" Marilyn out of her own revulsion from poison? Who sent her back for more of it by calling it harmless and good?"

Whoever did it must not do it again.

A child is endowed with intuition that tells him when he's loved and when he's not. It tells him to approach good and recoil from evil. When, because we prefer not to register that he's run up against hate, we tell him it's harmless and good, we confuse him seriously. For we have said, "What you know is true is not true." And that's more scary than any big black hole.

We cannot comfort Marilyn by telling her to trust what has made her feel helpless. We restore her by telling her never to trust what makes her feel helpless.

THE SINS OF THE CHILDREN

A reader writes me as follows: "A neighbor of mine, who also belongs to the same club that I do, flew into a terrible rage not long ago over something my youngster had done to her garden, and hasn't spoken to me since. Whenever I see her she turns her face in the opposite direction and completely ignores me. I think she is acting very childish over the whole thing. My problem is this: A meeting of our club is to be held in two weeks at her house and I don't know what to do about going. Would it be proper for me to go to her house under the circumstances, or would it be best to stay away?"

If you like her and have been friends and don't want to spoil it, I think you should go and tell her again how sorry you are about the damage your child did to her garden. To stay away would only widen the rift. On the other hand, if you prefer to cease being friends with her, then don't go.

Table Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please answer the following two questions on table manners which came up in our homemaking class the other day. (1) When eating soup, is it proper to tip the soup bowl in order to get the last mouthful of soup? (a) When conveying food to the mouth, should the fork be brought to the mouth with the tines up or down?

Answer: (1) It is entirely proper to lift it from the front and tip it away from you. (2) If you are spearing something with the fork in the left hand and the tines are down; if you are lifting something with the right hand, the tines are up.

Who Is Head of Family?

Dear Mrs. Post: When both parents are deceased, who is considered the nominal head of the family—the oldest member of the family regardless of sex, or the oldest male member of the family. I would like this information in connection with my wedding invitations.

Answer: The oldest child living is considered head of the family—whether it be a son or daughter.

HEALTH FOR ALL

HAZARD FOR HOUSEWIVES

Little by little we are beginning to learn that being "just a housewife" means a life as full of danger and excitement as that of an African White Hunter. Ernest Hemingway has not yet immortalized the terrors lurking in an excursion through the modern kitchen, but the diagrams of safety experts have shown us the countless chances women take every day in their homes. Now the doctor gives warnings of another occupational hazard: skin diseases of the hands.

Skin specialists say most of their patients suffering from dermatitis of hands are homemakers, usually young wives who must cook, clean, wash dishes, do the laundry, raise children, and still look glamorous for their husbands. Their hands are almost constantly exposed to hazardous conditions, yet if skin trouble develops they can't take their hands out of circulation long enough to cure them.

Inflammatory skin disease is brought on by many things the housewife can't seem to avoid. There are injuries to the skin from friction, heat, cold, moisture, soaking, and scratching. Irritation can come from soaps, detergents, polishes, cleansers, and even from nickel, rubber or plastic handles on utensils. Allergic reactions to certain foods and chemicals cause trouble as do infections in other parts of the body, nervous disorders, nutritional deficiencies, and just plain low resistance to infection.

Even though the risks are so many, it is a lot easier to avoid serious skin disease of the hands than to cure it. The housewife must find out for herself what substance and actions irritate her hands and try to organize her work so as to avoid them as much as possible. Even the lion hunter doesn't take unnecessary risks, but how many housewives wear gloves at their work?

Tanglewood Season To Feature Concerts By Music Students

Twenty-five concerts by students of the Berkshire Music Center will be given during the course of this summer's Berkshire Festival by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

This orchestra's school in the Berkshire hills is now preparing for its thirteenth year, which will commence with the arrival of some 400 students from all parts of the U. S., Canada and foreign countries on Sunday, July 3. The Berkshire Music Center has Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as director; Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony, as acting assistant director; Ralph Berkowitz as dean; and such eminent musicians on its faculty as Leonard Bernstein, Hugh Ross, Boris Goldovsky, Roger Sessions, Boris Blacher, William Kroll of Woodstock, Ingolf Dahl and first-chair members of the BSO.

Four forums, wherein young composers accepted for study at Tanglewood discuss their own and fellow students' work, are held Sunday evenings at 8:30 p. m. in the Chamber Music Hall, July 10 to Aug. 14. An attendance of 1,485 was registered at these events last summer.

Five evenings of opera, one integrated with choral works, will be given this summer in the Theatre-Concert Hall. Attendance at these events on the evenings of August 1, 8, 9 requires reserved tickets procurable in advance from the Friends' office at Tanglewood. Five thousand persons enjoyed these evenings in 1955.

Unscheduled demonstrations by students of Department V, the Tanglewood Study Group organized three years ago for the pure enjoyment of music by amateurs, will be given, as in the past, on a Friday afternoon in the Barn; and also planned are Monday evening forums, Ralph Berkowitz moderating, in Sedgwick Hall, Lenox.

SPCA Shelter Has Spring Cleaning, Added Services

The Ulster County SPCA Shelter on the Brabrant road has been thoroughly scrubbed down and disinfected, and is receiving a new coat of paint. In keeping with the spring cleaning going on all around, and possibly the "new broom sweeping clean" in the new set of club officers.

The Shelter is not yet complete, needing a finished ceiling and wire runs for each kennel so that the animals may be exercised and get some sun. Joseph Murray is the new county SPCA agent at the Shelter, on duty from 5 to 10 p. m. Mondays through Friday, Saturdays, from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. and Sundays, from 12:30 to 3 p. m.

Persons may leave stray animals at the shelter with Mr. Murray, although no one is permitted to leave animals there when he is not present. He may be reached by calling the new number of the Shelter, 5377.

All animals taken in at the Shelter are immediately inoculated against distemper, a service which has just been started by the county group.

Leon Smith, of Saugerties, the new president of the group, invites any old members to renew their membership at this time, and any interested persons to join the organization caring for stray animals in Ulster county. Meetings are held twice monthly in the county court house, Kingston, to discuss problems of strays and ways of handling them.

Four spades is the right contract in today's hand, but there is nothing wrong with getting to four hearts. When the hand was played in the Eastern States Regional Championships, recently, only a few pairs got to four spades. Most players bid and made four hearts, but one player found a way to go down.

West opened the queen of clubs, and our unfortunate hero won in dummy with the ace of clubs and drew three rounds of trumps. He then took the ace of spades and gave up a spade to the king. Back came a club, and South ruffed. He gave up another spade, and back came a club to punch out his last trump.

Now South could make sure of ten tricks by cashing the top diamonds and leading a spade to dummy's jack. But South was afraid to settle for ten tricks for fear that all the other declarers would take the diamond finesse and win eleven tricks.

Hence South cashed only one top diamond, entered dummy with the jack of spades, and took a diamond finesse. This lost to West's queen, and West promptly cashed his last club to set the contract.

There was nothing wrong with South's attempt to make an extra trick. However, he should have timed the attempt better to avoid losing his contract. There was no need to draw trumps in such a hurry.

South should win the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs, take the ace of spades and give up a spade. He ruffs the club return, gives up another spade, and ruffs another club return. Now he draws two rounds of trumps with the ace and king and finesses the jack of diamonds. Even if the finesse loses, dummy still has a trump to stop the clubs.

Contrary to popular belief, rattlesnakes do not seek to avenge a mate's death. They are attracted to the death scene by scent.

District Attorney Guest Speaker at Baptist Ladies' Night

Three major factors tend to breed parent delinquency, which in turn cause much of juvenile delinquency, District Attorney Howard C. St. John said when he addressed the annual Ladies' Night program at the First Baptist Church this week.

Mr. St. John said that the first factor was the all-too familiar family circle of the past now gradually disappearing due to too many outside activities.

The speaker pointed out that with fathers going bowling and mothers attending bridge club meetings and many other social activities, children of today are being neglected.

He listed the second factor as the lack of religious training and consistent church attendance.

Mr. St. John said it was all too apparent that many churchgoers today are together as a family only at Christmas and Easter time. Religious living and Christian principles are not a part of the lives of these people he pointed out.

The third point in the talk which he labeled a primary cause to child delinquency was the emphasis on material gains by parents much to the neglect of their children. To illustrate this, the speaker said that all one needs to do now is to ride through the slum area of any community and note the new cars and television aerials that are conspicuous in these locations.

Bringing the problem closer to home, Mr. St. John pointed out what he considers one of the prime needs to combat juvenile delinquency in Ulster county.

"While we have only one probation officer in a county of more than 92,000 population, he said, Dutchess county, with a population of more than 130,000, has a staff of eight. He expressed the opinion that a county of the size of Ulster should have at least a staff of four probation officrs.

He told his audience that this can only be changed by the board of supervisors acting to appropriate funds to enlarge the staff of probation officers.

IF COWS COULD READ, the want ads would be in great demand in the cattle barns. They could check the want ads every week and see what the future holds for them—whether they are being sold for beef or to some other farmer as a milk cow. When they saw themselves in a want ad, they'd know they were on their way in a hurry.

Telling Child to Trust What Terrifies Her Is No Comfort

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Indignation is a good emotion. It has such conviction in it that, unlike anger it can act without bluster or violence.

A young mother who signs herself Mrs. O. needs some.

For she has a neighbor who has twice terrorized her three-year-old child. Two months ago, visiting this neighbor, Marilyn was told that she would die, be hidden in a big, black hole and have dirt shoveled over her face. It took weeks before Marilyn could accept sleep without screaming.

Dissatisfied with this effect of her news, the neighbor has just given Marilyn some more. Two weeks ago, she convinced Marilyn that mothers of children who won't finish their meals poke the food down their throats with a sharp stick. Now Marilyn has become a feeding problem.

"What would you do in my place?" asks Mrs. O.

Let's put it mildly. I would shackle Marilyn to my belt with a strong chain before I'd permit any more wanderings in the direction of my neighbor.

I would feel such indignation that I'd be able to go on saying "Good morning" to her as though no decision had been made. Both of us would know it had. Both of us would know that Marilyn and I were through with this neighbor.

Now that Mrs. O. knows what I'd do, let's talk about Marilyn.

Why did she return to visit a person who told her that she was destined for a big, black hole and dirt on her face?

She didn't wish to. In her own language of bedtime terror, Marilyn expressed great revulsion against whatever it is in the neighbor that delights in making babies scream.

Did anyone soothing her terror of the "big black hole" say, "Hush, Mrs. So-ond-So didn't mean to scare you. She loves little girls. She didn't want to hurt you . . .?" Who "comforted" Marilyn out of her own revulsion from poison? Who sent her back for more of it by calling it harmless and good?"

Whoever did it must not do it again.

A child is endowed with intuition that tells him when he's loved and when he's not. It tells him to approach good and recoil from evil. When, because we prefer not to register that he's run up against hate, we tell him it's harmless and good, we confuse him seriously. For we have said, "What you know is true is not true." And that's more scary than any big black hole.

We cannot comfort Marilyn by telling her to trust what has made her feel helpless. We restore her by telling her never to trust what makes her feel helpless.

THE SINS OF THE CHILDREN

A reader writes me as follows: "A neighbor of mine, who also belongs to the same club that I do, flew into a terrible rage not long ago over something my youngster had done to her garden, and hasn't spoken to me since. Whenever I see her she turns her face in the opposite direction and completely ignores me. I think she is acting very childish over the whole thing. My problem is this: A meeting of our club is to be held in two weeks at her house and I don't know what to do about going. Would it be proper for me to go to her house under the circumstances, or would it be best to stay away?"

If you like her and have been friends and don't want to spoil it, I think you should go and tell her again how sorry you are about the damage your child did to her garden. To stay away would only widen the rift. On the other hand, if you prefer to cease being friends with her, then don't go.

Table Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please answer the following two questions on table manners which came up in our homemaking class the other day. (1) When eating soup, is it proper to tip the soup bowl in order to get the last mouthful of soup? (a) When conveying food to the mouth, should the fork be brought to the mouth with the tines up or down?

Answer: (1) It is entirely proper to lift it from the front and tip it away from you. (2) If you are spearing something with the fork in the left hand and the tines are down; if you are lifting something with the right hand, the tines are up.

Who Is Head of Family?

Dear Mrs. Post: When both parents are deceased, who is considered the nominal head of the family—the oldest member of the family regardless of sex, or the oldest male member of the family. I would like this information in connection with my wedding invitations.

Answer: The oldest child living is considered head of the family—whether it be a son or daughter.

HEALTH FOR ALL

HAZARD FOR HOUSEWIVES

Little by little we are beginning to learn that being "just a housewife" means a life as full of danger and excitement as that of an African White Hunter. Ernest Hemingway has not yet immortalized the terrors lurking in an excursion through the modern kitchen, but the diagrams of safety experts have shown us the countless chances women take every day in their homes. Now the doctor gives warnings of another occupational hazard: skin diseases of the hands.

Skin specialists say most of their patients suffering from dermatitis of hands are homemakers, usually young wives who must cook, clean, wash dishes, do the laundry, raise children, and still look glamorous for their husbands. Their hands are almost constantly exposed to hazardous conditions, yet if skin trouble develops they can't take their hands out of circulation long enough to cure them.

Inflammatory skin disease is brought on by many things the housewife can't seem to avoid. There are injuries to the skin from friction, heat, cold, moisture, soaking, and scratching. Irritation can come from soaps, detergents, polishes, cleansers, and even from nickel, rubber or plastic handles on utensils. Allergic reactions to certain foods and chemicals cause trouble as do infections in other parts of the body, nervous disorders, nutritional deficiencies, and just plain low resistance to infection.

Even though the risks are so many, it is a lot easier to avoid serious skin disease of the hands than to cure it. The housewife must find out for herself what substance and actions irritate her hands and try to organize her work so as to avoid them as much as possible. Even the lion hunter doesn't take unnecessary risks, but how many housewives wear gloves at their work?

Tanglewood Season To Feature Concerts By Music Students

Twenty-five concerts by students of the Berkshire Music Center will be given during the course of this summer's Berkshire Festival by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

This orchestra's school in the Berkshire hills is now preparing for its thirteenth year, which will commence with the arrival of some 400 students from all parts of the U. S., Canada and foreign countries on Sunday, July 3. The Berkshire Music Center has Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as director; Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony, as acting assistant director; Ralph Berkowitz as dean; and such eminent musicians on its faculty as Leonard Bernstein, Hugh Ross, Boris Goldovsky, Roger Sessions, Boris Blacher, William Kroll of Woodstock, Ingolf Dahl and first-chair members of the BSO.

Four forums, wherein young composers accepted for study at Tanglewood discuss their own and fellow students' work, are held Sunday evenings at 8:30 p. m. in the Chamber Music Hall, July 10 to Aug. 14. An attendance of 1,485 was registered at these events last summer.

Five evenings of opera, one integrated with choral works, will be given this summer in the Theatre-Concert Hall. Attendance at these events on the evenings of August 1, 8, 9 requires reserved tickets procurable in advance from the Friends' office at Tanglewood. Five thousand persons enjoyed these evenings in 1955.

Unscheduled demonstrations by students of Department V, the Tanglewood Study Group organized three years ago for the pure enjoyment of music by amateurs, will be given, as in the past, on a Friday afternoon in the Barn; and also planned are Monday evening forums, Ralph Berkowitz moderating, in Sedgwick Hall, Lenox.

SPCA Shelter Has Spring Cleaning, Added Services

The Ulster County SPCA Shelter on the Brabrant road has been thoroughly scrubbed down and disinfected, and is receiving a new coat of paint. In keeping with the spring cleaning going on all around, and possibly the "new broom sweeping clean" in the new set of club officers.

The Shelter is not yet complete, needing a finished ceiling and wire runs for each kennel so that the animals may be exercised and get some sun. Joseph Murray is the new county SPCA agent at the Shelter, on duty from 5 to 10 p. m. Mondays through Friday, Saturdays, from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. and Sundays, from 12:30 to 3 p. m.

Persons may leave stray animals at the shelter with Mr. Murray, although no one is permitted to leave animals there when he is not present. He may be reached by calling the new number of the Shelter, 5377.

All animals taken in at the Shelter are immediately inoculated against distemper, a service which has just been started by the county group.

Leon Smith, of Saugerties, the new president of the group, invites any old members to renew their membership at this time, and any interested persons to join the organization caring for stray animals in Ulster county. Meetings are held twice monthly in the county court house, Kingston, to discuss problems of strays and ways of handling them.

Four spades is the right contract in today's hand, but there is nothing wrong with getting to four hearts. When the hand was played in the Eastern States Regional Championships, recently, only a few pairs got to four spades. Most players bid and made four hearts, but one player found a way to go down.

West opened the queen of clubs, and our unfortunate hero won in dummy with the ace of clubs and drew three rounds of trumps. He then took the ace of spades and gave up a spade to the king. Back came a club, and South ruffed. He gave up another spade, and back came a club to punch out his last trump.

Now South could make sure of ten tricks by cashing the top diamonds and leading a spade to dummy's jack. But South was afraid to settle for ten tricks for fear that all the other declarers would take the diamond finesse and win eleven tricks.

Hence South cashed only one top diamond, entered dummy with the jack of spades, and took a diamond finesse. This lost to West's queen, and West promptly cashed his last club to set the contract.

There was nothing wrong with South's attempt to make an extra trick. However, he should have timed the attempt better to avoid losing his contract. There was no need to draw trumps in such a hurry.

South should win the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs, take the ace of spades and give up a spade. He ruffs the club return, gives up another spade, and ruffs another club return. Now he draws two rounds of trumps with the ace and king and finesses the jack of diamonds. Even if the finesse loses, dummy still has a trump to stop the clubs.

Contrary to popular belief, rattlesnakes do not seek to avenge a mate's death. They are attracted to the death scene by scent.

Paint Row Markers To Identify Plants

If you're an enthusiastic gardener and are suffering from an early attack of spring fever, you can find pleasant evening occupation in painting wooden seedbed markers with pictures of the vegetables and flowers you plan to plant. The designs can be traced from seed catalogues. The markers, which will make an attractive addition to your garden plot, can be given a final coating of spar varnish.

Avoid Conflict

Choose side draperies for a picture window that will not clash with the picture outside. A flowering garden cannot compete with the overwhelming blooms of a large floral print.

Wood Gutter Repairs

Wood gutters that have begun to leak can be repaired by coating the inside with roofing compound.

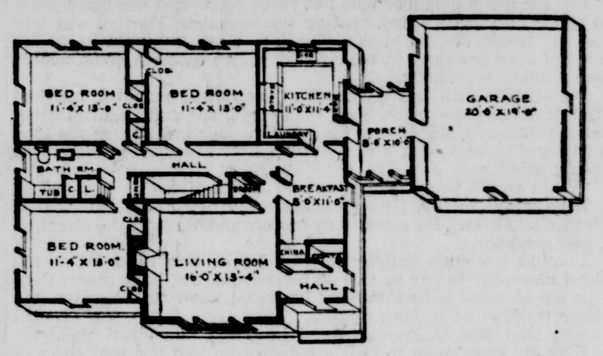
'Blackwalk' Needs 90-Foot Lot

Rooms	Seven
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Ten
Cubage
House	24,600 ft.
Garage	6,200'
Dimensions
House	30' x 41'
Overall	69'



Comfortably cozy in appearance "The Blackwalk," today's offering from the Home of the Week Plan Service, contains a spacious, well-planned interior designed for the modern American family.

With the house proper measuring 30 feet 6 inches by 44 feet, 6 inches, the complete plan including the porch and attached garage has an overall measurement of 69 feet. Cubage of the house is 24,600 feet; cubage of the garage is 6400 feet. You'll need at least a 90-foot lot an which to build this house and garage.

And, since the garage adds greatly to the overall exterior appearance of this house you'll be wise to include it in your plan unless you find it essential to cut building expenses to the minimum.

You'll find most any type of exterior finish equally suitable for this house. A combination of brick and shingles—as used in the accompanying illustration—provides added decorative interest to the house exterior. Blinds, too, add a pleasing decorative touch.

Three good-sized bedrooms are included in the interior layout. Good lighting and cross ventilation is featured in each of the bedrooms and good closet facilities are provided.

Located near to all the bedrooms, the bathroom is completely modern and is large enough to hold both a tub and a shower. The large closet in the bathroom can be used for your bed linens, table cloths, etc.

Double Duty

No dining room proper is set aside in this particular house plan — but the spacious living room is designed for double duty. And, the large, pleasant breakfast room — which opens directly off the kitchen—promises to be a popular spot for many family meals.

Strictly a work center, the kitchen contains a complete array of cabinets, cupboards and, of course, a wealth of counter space. Space is provided in the kitchen for your laundry equipment, too. Both the back and front yards are easily reached from the connecting porch.

Whether you build a one or two-car garage is up to you. However, if you decide upon a two-car garage even though you now have but one car in the family, you'll find that extra storage space useful.

Your heating equipment is the only "must" installation for the basement; this should be placed under the living room. Thus, you'll have plenty of basement space to use as you prefer.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

Be a Thorough Mixer When Preparing Paint

To determine whether your paint or enamel is ready for use, stir it carefully with a paddle to see if the heavy pigment has settled to the bottom of the can. If it has, pour most of the liquid on the top into another can. Then, stir what's left in the original container until it's thoroughly mixed. Return the liquid from the other can, a little at a time, stirring constantly. In this way, you can make sure that the liquids and solids are evenly mixed.

Result of Misuse

If you find that the bristles on your paint brushes divide into little clumps, blame yourself, not the brush. This dividing of bristles is due to painting with the edge of the brush rather than with the flat side which is the correct method.

Uses Lot of Water

The average automatic dishwasher uses from five to 8½ gallons of water to operate.

Beware of Dust

Be careful about doing any important painting or finishing — such as furniture in the basement. Most basements are so dusty and before the finish has a chance to dry hard it has picked up a layer of dust and lint.

Selected Plants Thrive in Shade

A sizeable group of perennials and shrubs actually prefer to be planted in a shady position rather than one which offers several hours of sunshine. With a little thought, the gardener with large trees, a canyon-like section between houses or a "north side of the house" problem can use a variety of materials which will bloom and thrive in the shade.

Among the perennials suitable for shade positions are lily of the valley, bleeding heart, hosta, which is also known as Plantain lily or Funkia, hemerocallis (daylilies) coralbells and Japanese anemones. The daylilies, coralbells and anemones often bloom until September or October.

Azaleas, snowberry and rhododendrom bushes as well as Clethra and cornelian cherry can be included among shrubs to be used in locations offering more shade than sunlight. Most of the shrubs show color in the spring and early summer but the Clethra blooms in July and August and the snowberry produces attractive white berries for later summer.

Don't Invite Explosion

Never add fresh water to a steam or hot water boiler when the fire is going. A large amount of cold water flowing into a hot boiler can do a good deal of damage. Wait until the fire is out or low before opening the feed valve.

Paint Row Markers To Identify Plants

If you're an enthusiastic gardener and are suffering from an early attack of spring fever, you can find pleasant evening occupation in painting wooden seedbed markers with pictures of the vegetables and flowers you plan to plant. The designs can be traced from seed catalogues. The markers, which will make an attractive addition to your garden plot, can be given a final coating of spar varnish.

Avoid Conflict

Choose side draperies for a picture window that will not clash with the picture outside. A flowering garden cannot compete with the overwhelming blooms of a large floral print.

Wood Gutter Repairs

Wood gutters that have begun to leak can be repaired by coating the inside with roofing compound.

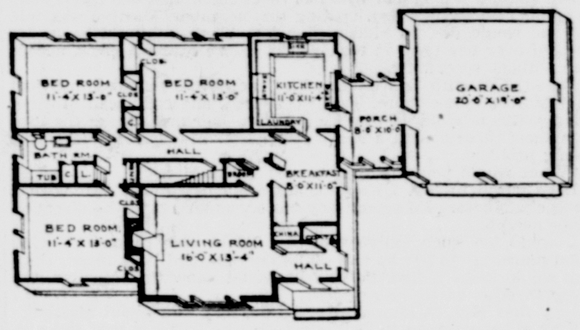
'Blackwalk' Needs 90-Foot Lot

Rooms	Seven
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Ten
Cubage
House	24,600 ft.
Garage	6,200'
Dimensions
House	30' x 41'
Overall	69'



Comfortably cozy in appearance "The Blackwalk," today's offering from the Home of the Week Plan Service, contains a spacious, well-planned interior designed for the modern American family.

With the house proper measuring 30 feet 6 inches by 44 feet, 6 inches, the complete plan including the porch and attached garage has an overall measurement of 69 feet. Cubage of the house is 24,600 feet; cubage of the garage is 6400 feet. You'll need at least a 90-foot lot an which to build this house and garage.

And, since the garage adds greatly to the overall exterior appearance of this house you'll be wise to include it in your plan unless you find it essential to cut building expenses to the minimum.

You'll find most any type of exterior finish equally suitable for this house. A combination of brick and shingles—as used in the accompanying illustration—provides added decorative interest to the house exterior. Blinds, too, add a pleasing decorative touch.

Three good-sized bedrooms are included in the interior layout. Good lighting and cross ventilation is featured in each of the bedrooms and good closet facilities are provided.

Located near to all the bedrooms, the bathroom is completely modern and is large enough to hold both a tub and a shower. The large closet in the bathroom can be used for your bed linens, table cloths, etc.

Double Duty

No dining room proper is set aside in this particular house plan — but the spacious living room is designed for double duty. And, the large, pleasant breakfast room — which opens directly off the kitchen—promises to be a popular spot for many family meals.

Strictly a work center, the kitchen contains a complete array of cabinets, cupboards and, of course, a wealth of counter space. Space is provided in the kitchen for your laundry equipment, too. Both the back and front yards are easily reached from the connecting porch.

Whether you build a one or two-car garage is up to you. However, if you decide upon a two-car garage even though you now have but one car in the family, you'll find that extra storage space useful.

Your heating equipment is the only "must" installation for the basement; this should be placed under the living room. Thus, you'll have plenty of basement space to use as you prefer.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

Be a Thorough Mixer When Preparing Paint

To determine whether your paint or enamel is ready for use, stir it carefully with a paddle to see if the heavy pigment has settled to the bottom of the can. If it has, pour most of the liquid on the top into another can. Then, stir what's left in the original container until it's thoroughly mixed. Return the liquid from the other can, a little at a time, stirring constantly. In this way, you can make sure that the liquids and solids are evenly mixed.

Result of Misuse

If you find that the bristles on your paint brushes divide into little clumps, blame yourself, not the brush. This dividing of bristles is due to painting with the edge of the brush rather than with the flat side which is the correct method.

Uses Lot of Water

The average automatic dishwasher uses from five to 8½-gallons of water to operate.

Beware of Dust

Be careful about doing any important painting or finishing — such as furniture in the basement. Most basements are so dusty and before the finish has a chance to dry hard it has picked up a layer of dust and lint.

Selected Plants Thrive in Shade

A sizeable group of perennials and shrubs actually prefer to be planted in a shady position rather than one which offers several hours of sunshine. With a little thought, the gardener with large trees, a canyon-like section between houses or a "north side of the house" problem can use a variety of materials which will bloom and thrive in the shade.

Among the perennials suitable for shade positions are lily of the valley, bleeding heart, hosta, which is also known as Plantain lily or Funkia, hemerocallis (daylilies) coralbells and Japanese anemones. The daylilies, coralbells and anemones often bloom until September or October.

Azaleas, snowberry and rhododendrom bushes as well as Clethra and Cornelian cherry can be included among shrubs to be used in locations offering more shade than sunlight. Most of the shrubs show color in the spring and early summer but the Clethra blooms in July and August and the snowberry produces attractive white berries for later summer.

Don't Invite Explosion

Never add fresh water to a steam or hot water boiler when the fire is going. A large amount of cold water flowing into a hot boiler can do a good deal of damage. Wait until the fire is out or low before opening the feed valve.

Wardrobe Has Dual Purpose for Child

A small wardrobe for the children's room is a dual purpose item in a different sense than the one usually meant. It helps reduce or eliminate clutter, and it also tends to install habits of order early in life.

For younger children who cannot reasonably be expected to hang up their clothes, a toy chest has a similar double value as a means of keeping the room relatively neat and possibly of interesting a child in the beauty of order.

Smooth Job

To make a wood surface really smooth, dampen it after a sanding with fine sandpaper. Allow the wood to dry and then resand. Repeat this process a couple of times and you'll end up with wood almost as smooth as glass. By dampening the wood you raise the grain and as this is repeatedly sanded smooth again you get perfect results.

Towel Ring Saves Space

A new space-saving idea for the bathroom is the towel ring. Where space will not permit another towel bar, or when extra towel space is needed, the towel ring is the answer.

Storing Fertilizer

Fertilizer should be stored in a dry place and, if possible, in a covered container.

Brush for Lacquer

A fine varnish or finishing brush is best for applying lacquer, say experts of the Paint and Varnish Brush Division of the American Brush Manufacturers Association. Because lacquer dries quickly, apply with rapid strokes, lapping each stroke slightly over the previous stroke.

Sizing Needed

Before applying paper to walls that have been coated with enamel or varnish be sure to apply a coat of size. If you don't there is not much chance of the paper holding very well or for very long.

Air Reserve Will Meet Tuesday at 8

Brush for Lacquer

A fine varnish or finishing brush is best for applying lacquer, say experts of the Paint and Varnish Brush Division of the American Brush Manufacturers Association. Because lacquer dries quickly, apply with rapid strokes, lapping each stroke slightly over the previous stroke.

Sizing Needed

Before applying paper to walls that have been coated with enamel or varnish be sure to apply a coat of size. If you don't there is not much chance of the paper holding very well or for very long.

Air Reserve Will Meet Tuesday at 8

Marlboro Central Routs Kerhonkson, 13-1, to Near UCAL Title

Ferraro Offers Alleys For Van Kleeck Fund

Johnny Ferraro has offered the use of the 14-alley Bowlodrome for any promotion designed to assist the Edna Van Kleeck Fund, it has been announced by Dot Rawding, president of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association.

It was further revealed by Mrs. Rawding that the Cornell street bowling proprietor was the first to suggest assistance for the stricken New Paltz keglerette.

The KWBA accepted Ferraro's generous offer and plans for a sweepstakes or tournament will be completed at the annual KWBA meeting Tuesday night.

FERRARO'S OFFER of his alleys touched off a chain reaction and $65 in cash was quickly pledged by leagues and individuals.

The KWBA president said Ferraro had made the offer at the recent banquet of the Women's Junior Major League.

At the same banquet, the Hayes-Jerrett sponsors donated $25 to the fund. The Cricket Shop followed suit. An individual bowler who received some prize money also contributed as did the McDermott squad. Lastly, the Junior Major pledged the money remaining in their treasury.

In a letter to the Freeman sports department, Mrs. Rawding emphasized that full credit is due Johnny Ferraro for suggesting the Edna Van Kleeck Fund. The KWBA assumed the initiative from that point.

"JOHN FERRARO'S offer was the nucleus of the whole fund," says Mrs. Rawding. "As president of the KWBA, it is not my intention to solicit donations, but to ask the KBA and our own association to support wholeheartedly whatever type of competition is selected for the Bowlodrome event.

"We naturally would not refuse a donation," the KWBA president added, "but I think, if we have one, the money should be raised by bowlers at the game of bowling."

Mackey Yields Five Hits and Fans Seven

Marlboro Central exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning to trounce Kerhonkson High, 13 to 1, and move a step closer to a repeat performance as Ulster County Athletic League baseball champions.

George Mackey limited the losers to five hits and fanned 7 in yesterday's game at Marlboro.

Coach Jack Kroh's tossers collected 10 hits and 11 walks off Johnny Mustion and Dick Steers, including doubles by Carston Conn and Joe Santoro, a triple by Mackey and Joe Sara's solo homer during the big uprising.

THE VICTORY assured Marlboro of nothing worse than a tie for first place. They play their final game with New Paltz on June 3.

Conn belted three singles in four trips for Marlboro. Douglas Swartz had two singles.

A triple by Mackey and Joe Sara's homer highlighted the 10-run rally. Mustion gave up three walks, there was an error and hit batsman. Conn, Swartz and the Mandia brothers inserted singles.

County Golf Clubs Plan Heavy Schedules for Holiday Weekend

Memorial Day weekend, the traditional opening of the competitive and social season at golf clubs, finds area clubs booked solidly for a variety of events.

Twaalfskill Club has a two-day tournament for low gross and low net honors with members using full handicaps. They can play either Saturday or Sunday.

THE ANNUAL Member-Guest, with three-fourths handicap is carded for Memorial Day. Several members already have signed and a record entry is expected.

Raichle said today that an all-time record entry of 60 players already had signed for the Member-Guest. He expected the number to swell by tee-time.

Twaalfskill's social season opens with a lobster roast and dancing tonight.

Woodstock Country Club has an 18-hole handicap tournament scheduled Sunday and a throw-out tournament for Memorial Day.

Social activities include a steak roast and cocktail hour tonight.

TOURNAMENT chairman, Clarence "Dubby" Raichle and pro Alex Gerlak, expect the heaviest weekend activity in Twaalfskill history. The club's membership roster is at an all-time high.

Woodstock expects its first big weekend with the traditional influx of the large summer membership of the club.

Mrs. Helen Dendy, women's golf chairman at Woodstock has called a general women's membership meeting for 5 p. m. Sunday. All women members are invited. Plans for the season will be outlined.

What's this about the Cops by-passing the Lawyers in favor of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the annual baseball extravaganza?

That's understandable, says a member of the barrister entourage. "They just got too much of Abe Molyneaux' outfielding, Ernie Schirmer's hitting and Judge Schirick's masterminding."

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Two former baseball associates — Fred Davi and Fritz Bruhn—only a couple rooms apart with the same ailment at the Benedictine Hospital. . . . Best wishes for speedy recovery for both. Davi's illness will postpone Kingston's debut in the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League, if there is to be one. Meanwhile, the Newburgh Dodgers Jewels launch their season Sunday. . . . Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey will throw out the first ball in the Jersey end of the inaugural ceremony. . . . Murray Olderman quote: If, as Lou Boudreau insists, Ted Williams was his buddy boy in Boston, how come his editors had to make the Splinter desist from calling Looie a phoney in his "retirement" story last year?

• Of Men and Mice:

Ronnie Ashdown needs hits in Kingston High's last two games to set a record of having batted in every game on the schedule (12) . . . Just a request from Roland Post, the Freeman's outdoor expert, to retract some of the things we said about Bob Turley on our return from Florida. . . . Modern travel note: August Torres, the Woodstock coffee tycoon, played golf at the Miami Beach golf club Wednesday afternoon, hopped a night plane to New York, motored to Woodstock and played in a foursome the next afternoon at 1:30 p. m. on the village links. . . . A new golf shot at Woodstock CC is known as the "Allen-bird." Which means any approach putt anywhere on the green.

Southpaw Bob Maines couldn't have picked a better time to toss that no-hitter against Port Jervis. Lou Cassell, New York Giant scout from Jersey City was in the stands watching. In a subsequent conversation with Johnny Battaglino, Cassell said he would look Maines over once more and recommend him to the parent club. He is also high on Big Bob Shelightner, who thumped a solid triple while the scout watched. . . . Rose Schatzel's two near-190 averages in local leagues reasserted her ranking as one of the finest women keglers in New York state. Her final average was topped by only a couple of the local male stars. The Edna Van Kleeck Fund is a worthy movement that merits the support of every local kegler and sportsman.

The Father Herdegen Memorial tournament entry blank has a section where the golfer lists his titles, if any. Herman Roosa filled that section in with . . . "Gardner Twosome" . . . The only solution we could arrive at was that Mr. Roosa has whipped Mr. Gardner so many times he now claims him as a golf title.

Little League Teams Invited To the Parade

Little League players in the area have been invited to participate in the Memorial Day parade.

John Ray Mayone, general chairman of the 1955 parade and active Little League official, says that if enough Little Leaguers are present in uniform, they will parade in a separate division. They are asked to assemble in the rear of Kingston High school at 2:15 p. m., Sunday.

Team managers, coaches and adults are also invited.

LL Opener On Tuesday

The Electrol Giants meet the Moose Red Sox in the American Little League opener Tuesday, May 31, at 6:15 p. m. at the 156th FA stadium.

Appropriate ceremonies will be held in conjunction with the opener.

Chez Emile Raps Cedar Rest, 6-1 Behind Enright

The winners collected nine hits off Huyler Van Wagenen, including two doubles by Bill Glaser and two singles by Embree. Enright aided his own cause with a triple.

IN ANOTHER game, Rapp's Express thumped Local 259, 13 to 5, as Jim Massuccio fired 6-hit ball.

The Expressmen assaulted Vince Carpino and Lou Secreto for 18 hits, including three each by Bob Perry, Joe Moffett, Bill Martini and Bruce Hinkley.

Moffett rapped two singles and a homer. Ken Steltz and Lou Secreto hit triples.

(The Associated Press)

How about that crafty old Casey Stengel? He's got himself pitching troubles, so what's he do but get his guys to belt homers and score their runs early to give the New York Yankees a three-game lead in the American League.

Casey's had only 16 complete games from his pitching staff in the 38 contests so far. And so when Bob Turley, who had five complete games, failed a second time to make it six on May 20, the professor worked out the new formula.

The Yanks were a half game out of first on May 20. Since then, they've scored first-inning runs in nine straight games and hit 11 home runs to win eight times for their league lead.

It was the same formula last night. They rocked Baltimore for four runs in the first and Whitey Ford coasted home for his sixth victory 6-2.

WITHOUT THE first-inning support, Ford might not have claimed his fifth complete game. The Orioles got one run back in the first, and another on Chuck Diering's homer in the second.

Eddie Robinson put the power in the opening surge, tagging loser Erv Palica for a three-run homer. It was the fourth homer in the nine-game stretch for Robinson, and three have come with two men on base.

The 34-year-old first baseman, filling in for the injured Bill Skowron and ill Joe Collins, has leveled off two of his three-run jobs in first innings while driving in 11 runs and batting .320 since May 20.

Yogi Berra's been the big guy in the nine-game move, however. He's unloaded six home runs, a pair of them first-inning blasts, and has driven home 19 runs while hitting .429.

IT WAS THE 13th victory in 15 games for the Yanks and Mickey Mantle ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 16 with a triple and double. For the streak, Mickey's batting .491, knocking home 20 runs.

The Yanks moved up a half game with the victory as Cleveland was rained out at Kansas City. Third place Chicago dropped a 1-0 game to Detroit and Billy Hoeft and Boston clobbered Washington 16-0 to take fifth place as Rookie Norbert (Norm) Zauchin batted in 10 runs with three homers—one a grand slam.

In the National, New York Giants cut a four-game losing streak by beating Brooklyn and Carl Erskine 3-1 on home runs. That left the Giants seven lengths back of the Dodgers and a game short of the Chicago Cubs, who were sidetracked by Milwaukee 7-5.

St. Louis regained fifth place by beating Cincinnati 7-4. Philadelphia won its fifth straight 5-2 in 10 innings at Pittsburgh.

BILLY HOEFT scattered six hits for his fourth victory as Detroit moved to within a half-game of the Sox. Frank House, benched since May 17 with a .179 batting average, homered to beat Dick Donovan, who had won five straight.

The Bostons had Ted Williams available for the first time, but a chilly night plus Zauchin's stick work postponed his comeback. Zauchin, a .214 hitter with only five previous RBIs, fell just one short of the American League's one-game mark.

At New York, Bobby Hofman reached a record. His third pinch homer of the season tied the game at 1-1 in the seventh and tied him with Cy Williams (circa 1912-1930 with the Phils and Cubs) for the major league pinch homer mark of nine. Hofman's only in his fifth season.

Willie Mays cut the props from Erskine's seventh victory with a two-run homer to the opposite field in the eighth, giving Sal Maglie a 23-10 lifetime mark vs. the Brooks and his fifth straight victory of the season. All of the last 13 runs scored off Erskine, who has lost two, have come on homers.

THE CUBS couldn't edge up as Brooklyn lost its sixth game in the last nine because Gene Conley won his seventh of the season. He needed help from Bob Buhl after seven innings and Buhl had to fan Ted Tappe to end it after loading the bases in the ninth. Sam (No-Hit) Jones lost it, leaving in a three-run fifth after giving six hits and six walks.

A three-run 10th extended Philadelphia's streak with Herm Wehmeier the winner after Andy Seminick's two-run homer tied it in the ninth.

At St. Louis, Rip Repulski homered and doubled as the Cards regained their hitting form for 12 hits to dump the Redlegs into sixth. Luis Arroyo won his fifth with Paul La Palme's help.

Eddie Stanky Reported Out as Cardinal Pilot

St. Louis, May 28 (AP)—Is fiery Eddie Stanky out as St. Louis Cardinal manager?

A tidal wave of rumors here and in Rochester, N. Y., say that the former New York Giant infielder is out and that Harry Walker, manager of the Rochester farm club, is in.

But Eddie said last night: "I intend to manage in St. Louis for a good many years."

Bill Walsingham, Redbird vice president, also denied that Stanky was about to make his departure.

THE RUMORS began here several days ago as the club ended a brief, but bad, road trip in which they dropped six of seven games and Eddie reportedly displayed some temper.

The rumors got into print yesterday when J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, said in a copyrighted story that Stanky's tenure as Redbird pilot is "nearing the end of the road."

The man who has the answer —August A. Busch, president of the ball club and of Anheuser-Busch, the club's owner—could not be reached, but sports writers here considered it significant that Busch has not come to Stanky's defense as he did last July during another hot spot in his managerial career.

AT THAT TIME Busch was asked if Stanky would be fired and he replied: "No, I believe in giving a fellow a hulluva chance."

In Rochester, George Beahon, sports columnist for the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle, said last night he learned positively that Walker would replace Stanky within 48 hours.

Walker left the ball park in the middle of a close game with Toronto last night. It wasn't learned immediately where Walker went but club officials said they thought he had left town.

Walker is a brother of Dixie Walker, now a coach under Stanky.

Ferraro Offers Alleys For Van Kleeck Fund

Johnny Ferraro has offered the use of the 14-alley Bowlodrome for any promotion designed to assist the Edna Van Kleeck Fund, it has been announced by Dot Rawding, president of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association.

It was further revealed by Mrs. Rawding that the Cornell street bowling proprietor was the first to suggest assistance for the stricken New Paltz keglerette.

The KWBA accepted Ferraro's generous offer and plans for a sweepstakes or tournament will be completed at the annual KWBA meeting Tuesday night.

FERRARO'S OFFER of his alleys touched off a chain reaction and $65 in cash was quickly pledged by leagues and individuals.

The KWBA president said Ferraro had made the offer at the recent banquet of the Women's Junior Major League.

At the same banquet, the Hayes-Jerrett sponsors donated $25 to the fund. The Cricket Shop followed suit. An individual bowler who received some prize money also contributed as did the McDermott squad. Lastly, the Junior Major pledged the money remaining in their treasury.

In a letter to the Freeman sports department, Mrs. Rawding emphasized that full credit is due Johnny Ferraro for suggesting the Edna Van Kleeck Fund. The KWBA assumed the initiative from that point.

"JOHN FERRARO'S offer was the nucleus of the whole fund," says Mrs. Rawding. "As president of the KWBA, it is not my intention to solicit donations, but to ask the KBA and our own association to support wholeheartedly whatever type of competition is selected for the Bowlodrome event.

"We naturally would not refuse a donation," the KWBA president added, "but I think, if we have one, the money should be raised by bowlers at the game of bowling."

Mackey Yields Five Hits and Fans Seven

Marlboro Central exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning to trounce Kerhonkson High, 13 to 1, and move a step closer to a repeat performance as Ulster County Athletic League baseball champions.

George Mackey limited the losers to five hits and fanned 7 in yesterday's game at Marlboro.

Coach Jack Kroh's tossers collected 10 hits and 11 walks off Johnny Mustion and Dick Steers, including doubles by Carston Conn and Joe Santoro, a triple by Mackey and Joe Sara's solo homer during the big uprising.

THE VICTORY assured Marlboro of nothing worse than a tie for first place. They play their final game with New Paltz on June 3.

Conn belted three singles in four trips for Marlboro. Douglas Swartz had two singles.

A triple by Mackey and Joe Sara's homer highlighted the 10-run rally. Mustion gave up three walks, there was an error and hit batsman. Conn, Swartz and the Mandia brothers inserted singles.

County Golf Clubs Plan Heavy Schedules for Holiday Weekend

Memorial Day weekend, the traditional opening of the competitive and social season at golf clubs, finds area clubs booked solidly for a variety of events.

Twaalfskill Club has a two-day tournament for low gross and low net honors with members using full handicaps. They can play either Saturday or Sunday.

THE ANNUAL Member-Guest, with three-fourths handicap is carded for Memorial Day. Several members already have signed and a record entry is expected.

Raichle said today that an all-time record entry of 60 players already had signed for the Member-Guest. He expected the number to swell by tee-time.

Twaalfskill's social season opens with a lobster roast and dancing tonight.

Woodstock Country Club has an 18-hole handicap tournament scheduled Sunday and a throw-out tournament for Memorial Day.

Social activities include a steak roast and cocktail hour tonight.

TOURNAMENT chairman, Clarence "Dubby" Raichle and pro Alex Gerlak, expect the heaviest weekend activity in Twaalfskill history. The club's membership roster is at an all-time high.

Woodstock expects its first big weekend with the traditional influx of the large summer membership of the club.

Mrs. Helen Dendy, women's golf chairman at Woodstock has called a general women's membership meeting for 5 p. m. Sunday. All women members are invited. Plans for the season will be outlined.

What's this about the Cops by-passing the Lawyers in favor of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the annual baseball extravaganza?

That's understandable, says a member of the barrister entourage. "They just got too much of Abe Molyneaux' outfielding, Ernie Schirmer's hitting and Judge Schirick's masterminding."

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Two former baseball associates — Fred Davi and Fritz Bruhn—only a couple rooms apart with the same ailment at the Benedictine Hospital. . . . Best wishes for speedy recovery for both. Davi's illness will postpone Kingston's debut in the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League, if there is to be one. Meanwhile, the Newburgh Dodgers Jewels launch their season Sunday. . . . Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey will throw out the first ball in the Jersey end of the inaugural ceremony. . . . . Murray Olderman quote: If, as Lou Boudreau insists, Ted Williams was his buddy boy in Boston, how come his editors had to make the Splinter desist from calling Looie a phoney in his "retirement" story last year?

• Of Men and Mice:

Ronnie Ashdown needs hits in Kingston High's last two games to set a record of having batted in every game on the schedule (12) . . . Just a request from Roland Post, the Freeman's outdoor expert, to retract some of the things we said about Bob Turley on our return from Florida. . . . Modern travel note: August Torres, the Woodstock coffee tycoon, played golf at the Miami Beach golf club Wednesday afternoon, hopped a night plane to New York, motored to Woodstock and played in a foursome the next afternoon at 1:30 p. m. on the village links. . . . A new golf shot at Woodstock CC is known as the "Allen-bird." Which means any approach putt anywhere on the green.

Southpaw Bob Maines couldn't have picked a better time to toss that no-hitter against Port Jervis. Lou Cassell, New York Giant scout from Jersey City was in the stands watching. In a subsequent conversation with Johnny Battaglino, Cassell said he would look Maines over once more and recommend him to the parent club. He is also high on Big Bob Shelightner, who thumped a solid triple while the scout watched. . . . Rose Schatzel's two near-190 averages in local leagues reasserted her ranking as one of the finest women keglers in New York state. Her final average was topped by only a couple of the local male stars. The Edna Van Kleeck Fund is a worthy movement that merits the support of every local kegler and sportsman.

The Father Herdegen Memorial tournament entry blank has a section where the golfer lists his titles, if any. Herman Roosa filled that section in with . . . "Gardner Twosome" . . . The only solution we could arrive at was that Mr. Roosa has whipped Mr. Gardner so many times he now claims him as a golf title.

Little League Teams Invited To the Parade

Little League players in the area have been invited to participate in the Memorial Day parade.

John Ray Mayone, general chairman of the 1955 parade and active Little League official, says that if enough Little Leaguers are present in uniform, they will parade in a separate division. They are asked to assemble in the rear of Kingston High school at 2:15 p. m., Sunday.

Team managers, coaches and adults are also invited.

LL Opener On Tuesday

The Electrol Giants meet the Moose Red Sox in the American Little League opener Tuesday, May 31, at 6:15 p. m. at the 156th FA stadium.

Appropriate ceremonies will be held in conjunction with the opener.

How about that crafty old Casey Stengel? He's got himself pitching troubles, so what's he do but get his guys to belt homers and score their runs early to give the New York Yankees a three-game lead in the American League.

Casey's had only 16 complete games from his pitching staff in the 38 contests so far. And so when Bob Turley, who had five complete games, failed a second time to make it six on May 20, the professor worked out the new formula.

The Yanks were a half game out of first on May 20. Since then, they've scored first-inning runs in nine straight games and hit 11 home runs to win eight times for their league lead.

It was the same formula last night. They rocked Baltimore for four runs in the first and Whitey Ford coasted home for his sixth victory 6-2.

WITHOUT THE first-inning support, Ford might not have claimed his fifth complete game. The Orioles got one run back in the first, and another on Chuck Diering's homer in the second.

Eddie Robinson put the power in the opening surge, tagging loser Erv Palica for a three-run homer. It was the fourth homer in the nine-game stretch for Robinson, and three have come with two men on base.

The 34-year-old first baseman, filling in for the injured Bill Skowron and ill Joe Collins, has leveled off two of his three-run jobs in first innings while driving in 11 runs and batting .320 since May 20.

Yogi Berra's been the big guy in the nine-game move, however. He's unloaded six home runs, a pair of them first-inning blasts, and has driven home 19 runs while hitting .429.

IT WAS THE 13th victory in 15 games for the Yanks and Mickey Mantle ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 16 with a triple and double. For the streak, Mickey's batting .491, knocking home 20 runs.

The Yanks moved up a half game with the victory as Cleveland was rained out at Kansas City. Third place Chicago dropped a 1-0 game to Detroit and Billy Hoeft and Boston clobbered Washington 16-0 to take fifth place as Rookie Norbert (Norm) Zauchin batted in 10 runs with three homers—one a grand slam.

In the National, New York Giants cut a four-game losing streak by beating Brooklyn and Carl Erskine 3-1 on home runs. That left the Giants seven lengths back of the Dodgers and a game short of the Chicago Cubs, who were sidetracked by Milwaukee 7-5.

St. Louis regained fifth place by beating Cincinnati 7-4. Philadelphia won its fifth straight 5-2 in 10 innings at Pittsburgh.

BILLY HOEFT scattered six hits for his fourth victory as Detroit moved to within a half-game of the Sox. Frank House, benched since May 17 with a .179 batting average, homered to beat Dick Donovan, who had won five straight.

The Bostons had Ted Williams available for the first time, but a chilly night plus Zauchin's stick work postponed his comeback. Zauchin, a .214 hitter with only five previous RBIs, fell just one short of the American League's one-game mark.

At New York, Bobby Hofman reached a record. His third pinch homer of the season tied the game at 1-1 in the seventh and tied him with Cy Williams (circa 1912-1930 with the Phils and Cubs) for the major league pinch homer mark of nine. Hofman's only in his fifth season.

Willie Mays cut the props from Erskine's seventh victory with a two-run homer to the opposite field in the eighth, giving Sal Maglie a 23-10 lifetime mark vs. the Brooks and his fifth straight victory of the season. All of the last 13 runs scored off Erskine, who has lost two, have come on homers.

THE CUBS couldn't edge up as Brooklyn lost its sixth game in the last nine because Gene Conley won his seventh of the season. He needed help from Bob Buhl after seven innings and Buhl had to fan Ted Tappe to end it after loading the bases in the ninth. Sam (No-Hit) Jones lost it, leaving in a three-run fifth after giving six hits and six walks.

A three-run 10th extended Philadelphia's streak with Herm Wehmeier the winner after Andy Seminick's two-run homer tied it in the ninth.

At St. Louis, Rip Repulski homered and doubled as the Cards regained their hitting form for 12 hits to dump the Redlegs into sixth. Luis Arroyo won his fifth with Paul La Palme's help.

McGrath Picked

Indianapolis, May 28 (AP)—Jack McGrath of Inglewood, Calif., will win the 500-mile auto race Monday if the men who should know have guessed right. Members of the champion 100-mile-an-hour club picked McGrath at the annual dinner last night. They are drivers who have gone all the way in the 500 at speeds of more than 100 miles per hour.

End of the Trail

Eddie Stanky Reported Out as Cardinal Pilot

St. Louis, May 28 (AP)—Is fiery Eddie Stanky out as St. Louis Cardinal manager?

A tidal wave of rumors here and in Rochester, N. Y., say that the former New York Giant infielder is out and that Harry Walker, manager of the Rochester farm club, is in.

But Eddie said last night:

"I intend to manage in St. Louis for a good many years."

Bill Walsingham, Redbird vice president, also denied that Stanky was about to make his departure.

THE RUMORS began here several days ago as the club ended a brief, but bad, road trip in which they dropped six of seven games and Eddie reportedly displayed some temper.

The rumors got into print yesterday when J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, said in a copyrighted story that Stanky's tenure as Redbird pilot is "nearing the end of the road."

The man who has the answer—August A. Busch, president of the ball club and of Anheuser-Busch, the club's owner—could not be reached, but sports writers here considered it significant that Busch has not come to Stanky's defense as he did last July during another hot spot in his managerial career.

AT THAT TIME Busch was asked if Stanky would be fired and he replied: "No, I believe in giving a fellow a hulluva chance."

In Rochester, George Beahon, sports columnist for the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle, said last night he learned positively that Walker would replace Stanky within 48 hours.

Walker left the ball park in the middle of a close game with Toronto last night. It wasn't learned immediately where Walker went but club officials said they thought he had left town.

Walker is a brother of Dixie Walker, now a coach under Stanky.

Gets Wrong Loot

Yonkers, May 28 (AP) — Every Friday 75-year-old Samuel Bodian makes a trip to the bank. He gets several hundred dollars for a knitting mill where he works, puts it in a brown bag and always follows the same route back. Yesterday, a thief, apparently familiar with Bodian's routine, waylaid him, grabbed the bag and fled. Bodian told police, however, that he made the trip to the bank four hours early yesterday. The second trip, he said, was to get some strawberries and that's what was in the bag.

'Heart's Desire' Contest Slated at Butler Furniture

A novel type of promotion is underway at the Butler Furniture Company, on Route 28A in West Hurley, this weekend as Heber Butler, owner of the wayside furniture store, inaugurates what he terms a "Heart's Desire" contest.

During two days, Saturday and Sunday, Mr. Butler will refuse to sell any merchandise at his establishment. The public is invited to come in and browse around. They will be furnished with special tags, and when they find the merchandise that is their "heart's desire," they will be asked to tag that merchandise.

UPON LEAVING the store, the customer will deposit a stub from the ticket, part of which he has already attached to an article, which will include his name and address and an estimate of the total number of articles of merchandise carried in the Butler store.

Eventually Mr. Butler will tally the estimates of articles, and the person with the nearest to the correct number of articles in the store will receive, delivered and absolutely free, the article which he has previously tagged as his "heart's desire."

Gets Wrong Loot

Yonkers, May 28 (AP) — Every Friday 75-year-old Samuel Bodian makes a trip to the bank. He gets several hundred dollars for a knitting mill where he works, puts it in a brown bag and always follows the same route back. Yesterday, a thief, apparently familiar with Bodian's routine, waylaid him, grabbed the bag and fled. Bodian told police, however, that he made the trip to the bank four hours early yesterday. The second trip, he said, was to get some strawberries and that's what was in the bag.

New York, May 28 (AP)—A live chinchilla is reported missing from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. When she left her room last night, Mrs. Marshall told police, the chinchilla was in a carrier. Returning about 20 minutes later, she said, the cage was open and the animal was gone.

'Heart's Desire' Contest Slated at Butler Furniture

A novel type of promotion is underway at the Butler Furniture Company, on Route 28A in West Hurley, this weekend as Heber Butler, owner of the wayside furniture store, inaugurates what he terms a "Heart's Desire" contest.

During two days, Saturday and Sunday, Mr. Butler will refuse to sell any merchandise at his establishment. The public is invited to come in and browse around. They will be furnished with special tags, and when they find the merchandise that is their "heart's desire," they will be asked to tag that merchandise.

UPON LEAVING the store, the customer will deposit a stub from the ticket, part of which he has already attached to an article, which will include his name and address and an estimate of the total number of articles of merchandise carried in the Butler store.

Eventually Mr. Butler will tally the estimates of articles, and the person with the nearest to the correct number of articles in the store will receive, delivered and absolutely free, the article which he has previously tagged as his "heart's desire."
